

TWO KILLED IN WEEKEND ACCIDENTS

13 MILLION CUT FROM BUDGET IN FUNDS MEASURE

First Deficiency Bill Reported to House by Appropriations Group

VOTE IS DUE TUESDAY

Miscellaneous Departments Allowed Nearly 126 Million in Bill

Washington—(AP)—The promised definite economy in government expenditures was inaugurated today in the first big money bill reported to the Democratic house by its appropriations committee.

The committee, led by Chairman Byrns, lopped off $13,443,900 or nearly 10 per cent of the budget estimates recommended by President Hoover, in the first urgent deficiency bill. It allowed miscellaneous departments $135,832,562 of the $139,230,432 requested to tide them over until the end of the fiscal year, June 30. In no single instance were the estimates increased by the committee.

The house planned to complete consideration of the measure Tuesday, so the senate may act on it before the end of the week.

Federal highway aid was given $50,000,000, or $10,000,000 less than Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the bureau of public roads, testified was needed. Byrns noted in his report that with the emergency appropriation made by the last congress to furnish employment on recommendation of the president, funds were obtained which some states could not respond to the appeal of Veterans Administrator Hines for more funds for military and naval compensation granted by congress in 1930, the appropriations committee approved $46,872,975 for that purpose. Before the holidays congress voted more than $200,000,000 for loans to veterans on their bonus certificates.

Building Program

To help expedite the Republican administration's public building program, a total of $18,206,000 was allowed. This is $3,000,000 less than was requested by James A. Wetmore, acting supervising architect of the treasury.

The committee explained that of 816 projects authorized, 134 have been completed, 285 are under construction, 63 are ready for bids, 97 are being prepared, and the remainder, although being drafted, are held up because of difficulties over sites. The authorized program amounts to $580,000,000 including buildings in and outside of the District of Columbia.

Wetmore testified that nearly all of the projects would be under contract by next fall. Because of lower costs of construction, he said, 10 per cent is being saved on all. None of the projects to receive the funds were specified either in the bill or by Wetmore in his testimony.

Washington's public buildings program suffered a shock in the bill. The committee put in a stipulation that the proposed $3,000,000 expenditure for remodeling the state, war and navy building be delayed until the government's finances were better. It also stipulated that the old postoffice department building, the farm board structure and the District of Columbia municipal building, slated to be demolished, be retained until the treasury deficit is wiped out.

Forestry Funds

Because last year was the worst in years for forest fires, $1,250,000 was allowed the forest service and $35,000 was given the park service for fighting blazes.

Increased expense in the railway mail service because of the shorter week for employees, approved by the last congress, resulted in an outlay of $1,500,000 for salaries of additional workers.

To aid the immigration service deport aliens in this country illegally or unemployed and wishing to go to their native shores, the committee set aside $475,000. Immigration Commissioner Hull testified he anticipated deporting 20,000 aliens this year, an increase of about 2,000 over last year.

The committee cut $150,000 off of the $350,000 estimate for furnishings for the new house office building. It gave the national guard $250,000; the mixed claims commission, $65,500; the postal village service $100,000; the Bureau of Indian Affairs $297,750; the justice department, $397,856, mostly for fees, the legislative establishment, $1,666,201, for land and buildings, and the District of Columbia $100,000, among other miscellaneous items. General purposes of these sums were itemized.

GANDHI IS BACK IN BRITISH JAIL FOR THIRD TIME

Mahatma Arrested By British for "Good and Sufficient Reasons"

ALLAHABAD, India.—(AP)—One man was fatally wounded and another was wounded to death, many were injured and 30 were arrested today in the first clash between the government and the Indian Nationalists.

By the Associated Press

Great Britain struck back at the Indian civil disobedience campaign today, clapped Mahatma Gandhi back into jail, imprisoned Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, his second in command, and prepared to deal vigorously with any further manifestations.

The country remained outwardly calm and it probably will be some days before the Nationalists show their hand. Leaders were lying low, awaiting developments.

From London came word that the British government views the Nationalist campaign as a challenge to the fundamentals of law and order and intends to deal with it as such.

The developments at Bombay had repercussions elsewhere. There was a split in the All-India Muslim conference at New Delhi where the president and secretary resigned on the grounds that they wanted the conference to give full discretion to Moslems who wanted to join the congress party movement. In far off Panama, all the East Indian stores were closed as a protest against Gandhi's imprisonment.

Poona, India.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi was walked up today in the British L-4 at Poona, a few miles from here, for the third time in his career as leader of the Indian Nationalists.

The little Indian leader was brought here this morning from Bombay, where he was arrested dramatically in the early morning hours for what the warrant said were "good and sufficient reasons."

At the same time that Gandhi was arrested, Vallabhbhai Patel, president of the Indian National congress, also was taken into custody and a new series of representative decrees against boycotting of British goods, "unlawful instigation," "unlawful association" and other acts associated with the civil disobedience type of "warfare" were promulgated at New Delhi by Viceroy Lord Willingdon.

The mahatma, and Patel, the sturdy farmer president of the congress, arrived here under guard at 8:30 a. m., both chilled through from the 120-mile ride from Bombay in the chilly air of early morning.

It was Gandhi's day of silence and this kept him from speaking but he gave his old jailer a broad smile of recognition, beaming, upon him like

$100,000 GEM HOLDUP ON STREET IN LONDON

LONDON.—(AP)—In one of the most daring holdups which has occurred in London in many years, several men in an automobile today robbed the manager of a jewelry store in the heart of Mayfair, of $100,000 worth of gems.

They drove up to the curb in Regent-street as the manager was walking to his shop from a bank not more than fifty yards away, carrying his firm's most valuable jewels which had been stored in the vaults over the weekend.

They yanked his hat down over his face, threw him to the sidewalk, seized the gems, dashed back into the car and sped away.

The holdup took only about twenty seconds and none of the passersby could provide a good description of either the car or the robbers.

Ex-Kaiser III

Doorn, Holland.—(AP)—Former Kaiser Wilhelm, who has been suffering a bronchial attack at his residence here passed a good night and members of his household said there was no reason for any uneasiness.

He caught cold while engaged in his customary outdoor work with ax and saw during the recent bad weather. Bronchitis developed yesterday, attended by a slight temperature and sore throat and he was forced to stay in bed. Yesterday afternoon he felt much better, however, and awoke this morning with his temperature gone.

House Group In Accord On Tariff Bill

Washington.—(AP)—The Democratic senate-house policy committee today agreed on a tariff bill.

The measure was drafted during the Christmas holidays by Speaker Garner, Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, ranking Democrat on the finance committee, Representative Rainey of Illinois, the Democratic leader, and Chairman Collier of the house ways and means committee.

It will be brought up for action in the house members were reached after a two hours conference in the speaker's office.

The measure does not touch the rate structure of the tariff. It sets out a policy that the Democrats would follow in even they captured the senate and the house in the elections next fall.

The tariff proposal carries a provision authorizing an international economic conference to be called by the president to promote a lowering of the international tariff walls.

It also would provide for the tariff commission to make recommendations to congress instead of to the president for changes in duties.

It embraces a provision for the creation of a consumers council for the tariff commission, and looks to a lowering of duties as a result of the proposed international conference.

BORAH ASKS SLASH IN CONGRESS PAY

Also Would Cut Salaries of Cabinet and Farm Board Officials

Washington.—(AP)—Salary reductions for members of congress, the cabinet and the farm board were proposed in measures introduced today by Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho.

Borah also introduced a bill taking away from members of congress allowance for mileage on their trips to and from congressional sessions.

He proposed to cut the salaries of the vice president, the speaker and members of the cabinet from $15,000 to $12,000. He would slash salaries of members of congress from $10,000 to $8,000.

Another bill would reduce salaries of members of the farm board from $12,000 to $8,500.

He also proposed a $15,000 limit on any salary paid under the administration of the farm board.

SOLONS NEAR SHOWDOWN ON RELIEF BILLS

Assembly Expected to Defeat Nelson Compromise $7,000,000 Measure

MADISON.—(AP)—The state's lawmakers returned to the capitol today for what appears to be the beginning of a showdown on unemployment relief legislation and several developments awaited them.

Administration spokesmen predicted defeat of the Nelson $7,000,000 compromise bill by the assembly.

This measure, passed by the senate last week when it killed Governor LaFollette's $17,000,000 program, was scheduled for hearing this afternoon before the joint finance committee.

The governor was putting the final touches today on his special message to the legislature in which, it is understood, he will accuse his opponents of attempting to levy relief appropriations against general property.

In connection with the governor's reply to the senate's action, the administration and its backers are drawing up a new relief bill which is said to carry appropriations, to be financed by income taxes, amounting to around $10,000,000.

The outstanding question now before the legislature is what the Progressive assembly intends to do with the $7,000,000 income tax-relief bill sponsored by Senator Philip Nelson of Maple, an independent, for which the senate majority has voted its preference.

In Night Session

Both houses reconvene tonight, marking the first full session of the assembly since the Christmas adjournment.

It was doubtful whether the finance committee would take action on the Nelson bill today but in case it is reported out a vote in the assembly would be likely tonight.

The governor expects to have his special message ready for delivery tomorrow if the legislators are prepared to receive it by that time. The message is understood to contain about three or four thousand words.

The fight to be made on the Nelson bill raises the question whether the entire $7,000,000 it appropriated will be paid back by income taxpayers or whether the general fund will have to stand most of it.

Nelson said at the time he introduced it that he is convinced the surtaxes it levies on the normal incomes of individuals and corporations during 1931 and 1932 will yield the whole amount and that he will be willing to vote further income tax increases later if it does not.

ROB CLOSED BANK FOR MONEY THEY KEPT ON DEPOSIT

Monck's Corner, S. C.—(AP)—Two disgruntled depositors of the branch of the People's State bank which closed Saturday, entered the bank today, forced an assistant cashier to open the vault, fled with $2,000 and then returned and surrendered after hiding the money. The men were H. H. Miller and Elvess Woodward.

Sheriff C. P. Ballentine said the $2,000 they took was approximately what they had on deposit when the bank closed.

Miller told the sheriff that he and Smith were determined to get their money. They planned the robbery, last night, he was quoted as saying, intending to bury the money and then surrender.

Pinchot And Lewis Plead For U. S. Aid For Jobless

Washington.—(AP)—The governor of Pennsylvania and the chief of the United Mine Workers asked emphatic pleas for federal aid to the unemployed in testimony today to a senate committee.

Governor Pinchot decried the administration plan for relief by voluntary contributions. Terming it "vicious," he insisted it was "an attempt to get by without increasing taxes and letting the big fellows come into share the load."

John L. Lewis addressed himself especially to the needs of miners in both union and the non-union class. Advocating a federal agency to combat "destruction," he estimated 180,000 miners were in dire want.

Called by Chairman LaFollette to give his views on measures for federal appropriations to aid the unemployed, the governor detailed conditions in Pennsylvania and efforts to meet them. He asked federal help.

The tall, spare witness related his unsuccessful effort to put through a $120,000,000 relief plan in his legislative session, and blamed the "Republican machine" for the defeat. The $120,000,000 relief bill before congress he described as "totally inadequate."

"I think there will be trouble," was the reply.

Pinchot, whose name has been linked with presidential speculation, told of his futile effort to get a mill

Several Held In Attack On U. S. Consul

Mukden, Manchuria.—(AP)—Japan presented an apology today for the assault by three Japanese soldiers last night on Culver B. Chamberlain, the American consul.

Mukden, Manchuria.—(AP)—Several arrests were made today in connection with the assault yesterday on Culver B. Chamberlain, United States consul, who was beaten by three unidentified assailants in one of Mukden's main streets.

Mr. Chamberlain's official report on the incident said one of the men who attacked him wore a heavy fur cap and a long dark coat over what appeared to be Chinese civilian clothes.

Washington.—(AP)—The American consulate at Mukden advised the state department today it had demanded that a "severe penalty" be meted out by Japanese authorities for the "unjustified" attack at Mukden on American Consul Culver B. Chamberlain.

Details of the attack on Chamberlain, in which he was badly bruised about the face by three Japanese soldiers at Mukden, were contained in a report from Consul Myers at Mukden.

The report was sent through American Minister Johnson at Peking. He appended a note to the state department that he also had made representations on the attack through the Japanese legation at Peking.

Myers reported that Chamberlain was on the way to the station to go to his new assignment at Harbin at 6:30 a. m. in the Mukden consul general's automobile when it was stopped by three Japanese soldiers.

The consul general himself by holin had identified himself by his card and passport after which the soldiers attacked him without justification, striking him in the face "many times."

Chamberlain's face was badly bruised but he otherwise was uninjured.

Minister Johnson has requested Myers to forward to him immediately the results of his representations to Japanese authorities and to report the results of their investigation and penalty for the incident.

BEER MANUFACTURE DATA IS REQUESTED

Senate Wants to Know About Jobs and Grain in Pre-prohibition Days

Washington.—(AP)—A resolution asking the commerce department for a report on the number of people employed in the manufacture of beer before prohibition was adopted, today by the senate. The senate also approved a joint resolution asking the agriculture department for a report on the amount of grain used.

Both resolutions were offered by Senator Dingman, Republican, of Kentucky, who had introduced a bill on which hearings start Friday, to legalize 4 per cent beer.

The departments were asked to present figures for each year from 1909 to 1917.

Meanwhile, state liquor control was called for in a bill by Senator Blaine, Republican, of Wisconsin.

It would authorize the states to define intoxicating liquors and permit sale and license.

The go onment would be authorized, however, to enforce the Volstead act within the alcoholic content limits fixed by the states.

URGES UNITY ON 8 MEASURES IN HIS PROPOSAL

Need Now "Even More Evident" Than When First Laid Before Congress

Washington.—(AP)—The senate Republican and Democratic leaders today predicted prompt disposition of the $500,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation bill in response to the message of President Hoover urging haste by congress on relief measures.

Washington.—(AP)—President Hoover in a surprise special message to congress today urged immediate action upon his emergency economic program.

Mr. Hoover declared emphatically the need is "even more evident" than when it was first laid before congress.

Soon after it reached the senate and house, reading of the document was begun. The chambers began to be filled when word spread around. The president pleaded that there be no partisan action, but that there be unity in swift adoption of eight measures previously proposed by him.

"We can and must replace the unjustifiable four in the country by confidence," the president said.

Enumerating the measures "requiring immediate action" he said they were "designed to check the further degeneration in prices and values, to fortify us against continued shocks from world instability and to unshackle the forces of recovery."

Emphasizing, Mr. Hoover said, "I would be derelict in my duty if I did not inform the congress of the need for action at the earliest possible moment."

Proposed Measures

Here are the measures he named. Strengthening of the federal bank system, already passed by the house.

Creation of the $500,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation.

Creation of a home loan discount bank system to revise employment and stimulate home building.

Enlargement of the discount facilities of federal reserve banks.

Development of a plan to restore part of the money in closed banks to disposal.

Revision of laws relating to transportation as recommended by the Interstate Commerce commission, to "restore confidence in the hands of our railroads."

Revision of banking laws in order to better safety and deposits.

Reduction of federal expenditures.

"Adequate increase of taxes," and

Smith said he would investigate every headquarters or room occupied by the National Miners union or other Communist organization, and bring their representatives into court.

The raid, which appeared to have had little effect in Halton, was reported here to have extended to several other Boone mines today.

FLOODS THREATEN PARTS OF EUROPE

Several Regions Under Water as Warm Weather Follows Bitter Cold

LONDON.—(AP)—Spring-like weather, continuing on the heels of bitter winter in Europe today, blurred several areas with damaging floods.

Scotland was particularly hard hit. Several rivers flooded sections of Glasgow and other areas, driving people from their homes and causing considerable damage.

In the Elbe mountains, on the border of Saxony and Czechoslovakia, a crash of rain for 24 hours caused rivers to overflow at many points.

The climate was greatest, however, in the British Isles and France. The weekend temperature in the London area was more like summer and the highest for January in many years.

In Scotland, 40 hours of warm rain on top of the recent downpour caused the rivers. Smith's river, the great Forth and Tay, to overflow. The Clyde was swollen dangerous and tolling with great force. Traffic was held up in many places where railways lines were under water.

The low lying parts of Glasgow were flooded deeply, many houses were uninhabitable and wreckage of furniture was floating in the streets.

Wide Search Started For Gunmen Who Killed Six Officers

EFFORT TO NAB SUSPECT LEADS TO SLAYINGS

Abandoned Automobile Considered Important Clue by Missouri Prosecutor

Springfield, Mo.—(AP)—A manhunt rivaling those of the old days of the "bad" southwest today carried the search for the desperate Young brothers, who killed six officers in a farm yard massacre, from the rough Ozark-co of Missouri far into Texas.

The abandonment of a wrecked automobile by two men near Streetman, Texas, was considered by District Attorney Dan Nee as a valuable clue in the ever spreading search.

Nee said descriptions of the two motorists, given by a friendly farmer, offered a mule team to right the machine, "tallied closely" to those of two of the suspects.

Within the car was a rifle and shotgun similar to weapons the slayers took from the body of Sheriff Hendrix after he had fallen dead at their door from a shotgun charge.

Harry Young, 27-year-old leader of the desperadoes, and his brother, Jennings, 29, were declared to have recently spent much time in Houston, Texas. Officers expressed the opinion they might be heading for Mexico.

The six Springfield officers fell victim late Saturday to a withering gun fire directed from the home of Mrs. Willie Young, the mother of the brothers, who were sought by Sheriff Hendrix.

Police believe Harry and Jennings Young were aided in their slaughter by another brother, Paul, and perhaps by Charles Floyd, 27, an Oklahoma outlaw known as Pretty Boy.

Three other officers were wounded and the occupants of the house, whose identity and number still is not exactly known, fled before other officers, national guardsmen and volunteer possemen arrived.

Police believe Harry and Jennings Young were aided in their slaughter by another brother, Paul, and perhaps by Charles Floyd, 27, an Oklahoma outlaw known as Pretty Boy.

Officers Face Puzzles

The contradictory nature of the abandoned automobile in Texas and the identification of the fugitives in Kansas City, was merely one of numerous puzzles facing authorities.

It was possible, police pointed out, that Harry Young's companions in the farm yard battle had separated.

Six members of the Young family are under arrest here, but officers expressed belief they were not definitely linked with the massacre.

The prisoners include Mrs. Willie Young, mother of the fugitives; another brother, Oscar; his wife, two sisters of the suspects, Vinita Young and Mrs. Albert Conley, and the latter's husband.

The search for the killers in the abandoned car at the scene of the battle continued Saturday night and Sunday with hundreds of men, bloodhounds, and an airplane co-operating.

Last night the volunteers quit the drive through fields and woods, leaving to officers the running down of numerous tips which were received in a steady stream from citizens.

Mrs. E. T. Page, wife of a suburban grocer, said Harry and Jennings Young appeared at her door Sunday morning, asked for food for three men, and disappeared into a thicket.

Missouri license plates found in a field near the automobile in Texas, were reported by District Attorney Nee to have been issued to J. H. Rogers of Bolivar, Mo. He believed the automobile had been stolen from the vicinity of Springfield.

Two farm women said they saw the Texas suspects haul the license plates into the field, halt another machine, and proceed south in it toward Houston.

NEW YORK SOLONS OPEN NEW SESSION

Legislature Convenes at Albany This Week for 155th Session

Albany, N. Y.—(AP)—The New York legislature convenes Wednesday for its 155th session.

It is, as it has been for years, Republican in complexion; it faces, as it has faced before, a Democratic governor who is mentioned as the national standard bearer for his party.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic executive, and his party lieutenants in the senate are confronted with a new and younger Republican leader in the person of George F. Feaon.

Four men whose association with New York legislatures carried their names beyond the borders of their state ultimately reached the presidency. The first followed this route almost a century ago—Martin Van Buren, a Democrat. The Whig president, Millard Fillmore, left New York state politics for Washington in 1855, and Theodore Roosevelt turned from the huge gray stone state capitol to become vice president, and in 1901 president.

Secondary only to the general economic problem awaiting settlement by the 1932 legislature is the question of whether the Republican-sponsored legislative investigation of the Democratic administration of New York City is to be continued.

The practical aspect of the inquiry problem to be decided by the new legislature pertains to the granting of another appropriation for continuation of the inquiry. The $500,000 voted by the last legislature must, it is reported by those in contact with the committee, be augmented by at least $100,000 if the inquiry is to continue.

The responsibility for the investigation was placed squarely on the shoulders of the Republican legislature by Governor Roosevelt last year. He told the legislature if it deemed an inquiry necessary, it should investigate.

FIRE DESTROYS GRAIN

Buenos Aires—(AP)—Approximately 400,000 bushels of Argentine grain, held for export in the elevators of the Louis Dreyfus company, were destroyed by fire early this morning.

PREDICT NEXT PRESIDENT TO BE DEMOCRAT

Dutcher Says All Present Indications Point to Hoover's Defeat

BY RODNEY DUTCHER (Copyright, NEA Service, Inc.)

Washington — According to accepted gauges, 1931 was a Democratic year. So was 1930.

Now comes 1932, all-important because next November a president as well as another Congress will be elected. Although millions hold their faith in Herbert Hoover and the Republican party, such barometers as exist seem to indicate that this also will be a year of Democratic victory.

Political predictions 10 months ahead must inevitably be accompanied by cautions warning that intervening developments, perhaps entirely unforeseen, may completely alter any political situation. The consensus of prophecy now is that:

1. The Democratic nominee, probably Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York or Newton D. Baker of Ohio, will defeat President Hoover.

The Democrats will win working majorities in Congress.

2. The chief issues will be prohibition, depression, tariff and war debts.

The trick is the stick that in your hat, sit back and watch to see what, if anything, happens to upset the dope.

For 23 years Democrats have not been reigning. Republicans so dominant. No one has been any such approach to unanimity in a forecast that a president would be voted out of office.

The Republican leaders hope for business revival or serious Democratic mistakes. The extent to which either or both must become operative in order to turn the 1932 tide is a speculative question. Either or both of these have been any such approach to unanimity in a forecast that a president would be voted out of office.

FARMERS' MEETINGS SCHEDULED THIS WEEK

BY W. F. WINSEY

Coming farm events in Outagamie county this week are a meeting of the cooperative livestock shipping associations in the court house, Appleton at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning; a meeting of the Equity association in the Equity hall, Seymour, Wednesday evening; a meeting of the farmers' institute committee in the Equity hall, Seymour, Wednesday afternoon; the annual meeting of the Outagamie-co Brown Swiss breeders' association was held in the village hall at Black Creek last Saturday.

START SEWER WORK

Preliminary work on the Parkway-bld. sewer has been started, and Morrison-st sewer is within one-half a block of completion. The installation will be finished by the end of the week.

Developments during the next nine months.

The Hoover moratorium was hailed last June as a master stroke likely to put the world back on its economic feet and also re-elect Hoover. It perhaps avoided a general European crash, but the public reaction, if Congress rejects water sentiment, has been violent, although the measure has just been approved by both houses.

Democrats are being closely watched for those stupid blunders which the Republicans expect especially in the House, where they must make legislative policies and act like politicians "fit to rule."

They far they have given the Republicans no opening could attack. They will have plenty of opportunity, however, in Congress, in national convention and in the campaign.

The Republican National Committee recently met and voted to hold the party's national convention in Chicago, beginning June 14. The meeting was gloomy. The party, usually well in funds, was found to be temporarily broke, looking for money to keep national headquarters open.

Depression, prohibition and lack of interest were blamed for failure of contributors to produce cash.

The Democrats, heavily in debt to Chairman John T. Raskob and now engaged in a drive for money to pay him off, meet here in January to pick a convention city. Being Democrats, they are likely to stage a hot fight, especially if Fuskob insists that the committee declare itself in some way on prohibition.

Although unhappiness and discontent have produced rumors of anti-Hoover movements in Republican ranks, Hoover will almost certainly be renominated at Chicago. His control of party machinery is such that no one has yet imagined any contention of progressives and other dissenters which could take more than a high maximum of 20 per cent of the delegates from him.

Calvin Coolidge's disclaimer only made Hoover's nomination more certain. The G. O. P. convention fight, if any, will be on the wet-dry issue.

Democratic presidential politics now center around Governor Roosevelt, far ahead of other aspirants for nomination. Some of the most powerful Democratic leaders expect to prevent him from walking away with the prize and at this time his progress, although very substantial, seems to have been checked. It has become increasingly doubtful that he will have the situation sewed up at convention time. But no one is openly slashing at the governor; no important group seems yet implacably hostile. He seems sure of being well ahead as the leading candidate next June.

Baker is the really important threat against Roosevelt at this time. He has refused to be a candidate, but next to Roosevelt he attracts more support among Democratic politicians and rank and file than any other man. Many believe he would be a stronger candidate than Roosevelt.

"Favorite son" delegations are being encouraged in several states and the same leaders look kindly on Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, who seems likely to be runner-up to Roosevelt. Between favorite son and Ritchie delegates, Roosevelt may be held from the two-thirds vote necessary to nominate. If he once gets a majority on any ballot, however, the big eastern leaders will have great difficulty keeping the nomination away from him. They probably wouldn't dare try.

Presidential primaries will be held in 19 states during March, April and May. It is not yet known which ones Roosevelt and other candidates plan to enter.

"HAPPY" GLASSFORD MOST UNIQUE POLICE CHIEF IN COUNTRY

Head of Washington's Department Always Looks for Action

Washington—"Happy" Glassford is perhaps the most unusual chief of police any large city ever had.

As Brigadier-General Pelham D. Glassford he was the youngest American general of the line during the war.

As a talented artist, he retired from the Army last July at the age of 47 to enjoy the rest of his life painting pictures.

But they wanted a man to reorganize and devitalize the demoralized police force of the capital, so they picked on this man whose lifelong smile and consistent friendliness have caused him to be tagged as "Happy" ever since his days at West Point.

He's Been Arrested

Glassford didn't like that idea much when his old friend and superior, Major General Herbert B. Crosby, who is the District of Columbia commissioner in charge of police affairs, put it up to him. But he consented finally on the theory that the job promised plenty of "fun and action."

Action, energy and never-failing good humor are his weapons as he takes over this really tough job. Of police experience he has had none whatever.

"What do you know about police forces?" he was asked.

"Well," he pondered, and then suddenly brightening, "I've been arrested. Once I drove through a stop signal and another time I was arrested for speeding on my motorcycle."

He thinks he can rely importantly on "common sense" to carry him through. He expects to see to it that both the police and the people here get a square deal from each other. He believes you or me could do as well as he in a police force as readily as you can install it into an army.

Faces Tough Task

It's a tough job. The capital city's police prestige is near the bottom, thanks to third degree scandals, frameup scandals, and many other assorted scandals. Crosby wanted a chief who would "sell the force to the public" and appease the Congressmen whose favorite sport is to "expose" the Washington police.

"Happy" is six feet and three inches tall, wiry, blonde and youthful.

He was born in New Mexico and his home is in Arizona, where he was recently offered the post of state adjutant-general and where he has a ranch. His father was an army officer and he was an art student here in his youth.

At the age of 17 he entered West Point and was the youngest member of the graduating class of 1904. He has always served in the field artillery—in the United States, the Philippines, Hawaii, the Mexican border and France. He has been an instructor and an assistant professor at West Point.

Decorated For Bravery

He was commandant of the Saumur artillery school in France, served in the Chateau-Thierry campaign and was made a brigadier-general when placed in command of the 51st Field Artillery brigade and sent to the front lines. There he won a distinguished service medal for "high military attainments and unceasing energy" and "rendering invaluable service to the A. E. F." He was wounded and received a silver star citation in 26th Division orders for gallantry in action.

"My idea of discipline is not the kind obtained by oppression or coercion," says Glassford.

"Discipline to me means getting subordinates into a frame of mind where they are not only willing, but eager, to carry out instructions. Discipline resulting from fear of punishment is the worst kind of discipline, although every commanding officer must insist that his orders be carried out."

BREEDERS PLAN BASKET PICNIC EARLY NEXT JUNE

Officers of Brown Swiss Association Re-elected at Annual Meeting

BY W. F. WINSEY

Black Creek—A basket picnic was planned for the second Sunday in June by the Outagamie-co Brown Swiss breeders association at the annual meeting in the village hall here Saturday afternoon.

The picnic will be held in Fred Weishauff's grove on Highway 47 north of Black Creek and the public will be invited.

The secretary was instructed to get in communication with B. H. Hibbard of the College of Agriculture, president of the National Brown Swiss association, and also with Ira Inman, Beloit, secretary of the national association, in an effort to induce one of these men to be the principal speakers at the picnic. The secretary also was instructed to get out picnic posters and to place a number in the hands of each member of the local association.

The secretary was instructed to invite all delinquent members to pay their dues and to notify them in the invitation that no service of the association would be extended in the future to members whose dues are in arrears.

The association decided to offer the same awards as last year to members of 4-H clubs of Outagamie-co who have Brown Swiss calves for their projects and make the best records.

Beside the picnic, limiting the service of the association to dig up members, and calf club activities, subjects discussed were the prices of registered and non-registered purebred animals, cooperative marketing of farm commodities, breed types and production in determining the value of a purebred animal, and the outlook for improvement in farm prices.

While each member present took part in the discussions, the principal speakers were Emil Mueller, Otto Rohm, C. J. Van Patten, George Krickeberg and Alfred Techlin.

Directors elected were C. J. Van Patten, Emil Mueller, Louis Gensake, George J. Krickeberg and Alfred Techlin.

Among the early arrivals at the meeting were C. J. Van Patten, Alfred Techlin, George J. Krickeberg, John Techlin, Emil Mueller, Jr., John Mueller, O. F. Rohm and Louis Gensake.

Bridge Tournament To Be Concluded During Week

BY TOM O'NEIL

New York—(AP)—Competitors in the contract bridge match will strive in the concluding sessions this week to get the most of their cards, although victory for Ely Culbertson's side is a foregone conclusion, in the opinion of neutral experts.

There will be material for argument for the vanquished if Sidney S. Lenz and his new partner, Commander Winfield Liggett, Jr., are able to reduce the deficit of Lenz's side to below what it was when Oswald Jacoby resigned as Lenz's partner in a dispute over bidding and play.

With 30 rubbers left of the 150-rubber series Culbertson's side is 20,220 points ahead. Of that lead 16,840 points were accumulated while Jacoby was Lenz's partner and 3,380 points while the commander sat opposite Lenz. Jacoby has played 103 rubbers and Liggett 17.

Culbertson expressed the opinion today that with a fair break in cards his lead would be increased rather than reduced in the final sessions, tonight, tomorrow night and Thursday and Friday nights.

He estimated that Jacoby had been worth at least 10,000 points to Lenz. That is, if Jacoby had not been playing, Culbertson would have been glad to have had Jacoby as a partner if Lenz had not chosen him.

The lady in the case has something at stake in this week's play. In the 73 rubbers in which Mrs. Culbertson has been her husband's partner the plus of Culbertson's side has been 3,540. Only two rubbers are necessary for her to complete the portion of the match which the contract stipulates she must play, half of it. But she intends to play throughout tonight's rubbers and the final session Friday night in the hope of making the lead acquired while she is at the table as large as possible.

Culbertson, who has had three partners already will have two more this week. Michael Gottlieb will be opposite him tomorrow night and Edward Schenken Thursday night. There will be no play Wednesday night. Each of those partners will desire to make as good a showing as possible.

HUGE DEFICIT AS SECOND HALF OF YEAR OPENS

Washington —(AP)— A $1,385,449.487 deficit faced the government on Jan. 1 when it started the last half of the 1932 fiscal year.

At the end of the calendar year the public debt was $17,825,449,753, an increase of nearly $2,000,000,000 compared with Dec. 31, 1930, when it amounted to $16,026,087,057.

The increase in the debt was accounted for chiefly by a deficit of $803,000,000 for the 1931 fiscal year ending last June 30 and the new deficit rolled up in the six months in 1932 fiscal year.

The deficit of the 1931 fiscal year added approximately $500,000,000 to the public debt.

The administration already has recommended to congress a tax program to provide more money to run the government. Some changes, however, will be proposed by the Democrats. Tax legislation will come up in congress this week.

The decline of income tax receipts which largely has been responsible for the great decline in government income was intensified during the six months just closed. They amounted to $615,324,342, as compared with $1,107,307,012 in the same period last year.

Internal Revenue Drops

Miscellaneous internal revenue dropped $25,000,000 as compared with last year when it totaled $270,571,331. Customs receipts, which had gone upward in the first three months of the present fiscal, slumped to a total of $197,888,802.

Total ordinary receipts amounted to $1,134,454,092 compared with $1,704,467,270 a year ago. At the same time expenditures increased by $800,000,000, bringing the total for the six months just closed to $2,439,415,470.

General expenditures totaled $1,372,071,210 and the public debt charges cost the government $290,998,399, while the sinking fund requirements called for $355,299,200.

The postal deficiency on Dec. 31 amounted to $95,000,000 while the federal farm board spent $38,801,933 in the half year and $200,000,000 was turned over to the veterans service for loans on World War Veterans certificates.

For the fiscal year to Dec. 31 the government issued $5,401,893,927 in various forms of securities to raise money needed to meet operating expenses and retire maturing paper. During the year it retired $4,377,725,666 in securities, leaving it with more than $1,000,000,000 out-standing than had been paid off.

STATE DEMOCRATS TO MEET JAN. 23

800 Delegates Expected at Wisconsin Conference at Fond du Lac

Milwaukee —(AP)— Confident that not since the days of Woodrow Wilson have prospects for victory been so bright, Democratic state leaders are planning to accommodate 800 delegates to the state conference to be held in Fond du Lac Jan. 23. The conference, to be held in the Rathau hotel, will elect delegates to the national convention and will set the Democratic house in order for the gubernatorial race.

"Interest in the state conference has never been so high," said State Chairman Otto A. LaBuddé, Milwaukee, today. Encouraging reports from all parts of the state were received at a state central committee meeting here Saturday.

Before the Fond du Lac conference, meetings will be held in each of the 11 congressional districts. Each district will nominate two persons as delegates to the national convention. The nominations will be subject to further consideration at the conference.

The national Democratic committee will meet Jan. 9 to make delegate allotments to the state. Unless the legislature before that time acts on reapportionment it is expected that Wisconsin delegates will be chosen on the basis of present congressional districts. In that event,

WOMAN LEADS OFFICIALS TO HER KIDNAPERS

Makes "Appointment" With One of Gang and Returns With Cops

Chicago —(AP)— Mrs. Georgia Gecht, wife of Dr. Max Gecht, whose studied advances to an enamored kidnaper resulted in the capture of seven men accused by officers of being members of a ransom gang, led investigators to a lonely bungalow in Palos Park last night where, she said, she was held captive for 60 hours.

She and her husband were kidnaped Dec. 10. He was released the next day, but she was held while her husband negotiated and paid $2,000 ransom.

Although both were blindfolded when they entered the place, Dr. and Mrs. Gecht said they remembered certain pieces of furniture in the rooms where they were held captive.

They put me in this room for a while," said Mrs. Gecht, indicating a front room. "They said it was too light, so they took me to the other room. They did not tie me up or blindfold me, but they kept the shades tightly drawn, and I was handcuffed with one hand to the bed. I was able to lie down or sit up, but I could not stand straight or walk."

The capture of Gus Sanger, owner of the bungalow, was brought about when Mrs. Gecht led him to believe that she would keep an appointment with him after her release. Sanger confessed, officers said, and brought about the capture of the rest of the gang.

One of the men held is Attorney Ward Stalwell, former assistant state's attorney. The others are John J. Pingree, reputed leader of the gang; William Thomas, Albert Russell, Edward Finen and Guy Wyckoff. Oscar Martin was released yesterday.

Assistant State's Attorneys C. Wayland Brooks and Ross Lee Laird were preparing to go before the grand jury today or tomorrow to seek an indictment of the suspects.

Investigator Roche said he intended to continue his investigation into Pingree's activities. He said he had learned that the alleged gang leader had held many telephone conversations with persons in Peoria and St. Louis. He was seeking to connect Pingree with other kidnappings in southern Illinois, Missouri and Kansas.

Bouzidon has sold his crops for an average of $2.50 a bushel.

ARREST FUGITIVE

Milwaukee —(AP)—Alfred Schwartz, 18, who escaped Oct. 2 from the Northern Wisconsin Colony and Training School at Chippewa Falls, was found at his home here yesterday and turned over to representatives of the institution.

Wisconsin will have 26 delegates at the convention.

Despite his insistence that he is not a candidate for office, Charles E. Broughton, Sheboygan newspaper man, is mentioned most frequently as Democratic candidate for governor. Another who enjoys the confidence of a large group in the party is Charles E. Hammersley, Milwaukee attorney.

THE TAKEOUT DOUBLE

A dramatic and effectual use of the Takeout Double, using the principles advocated by me, was afforded in the last hand of the sixteenth rubber of my match with Mr. Sidney S. Lenz in New York. In this match Mr. Lenz was playing with Mr. Oswald Jacoby, and was using the so-called Official System. My partner was Mrs. Culbertson, and we, of course, were using the Approach-Forcing System (sometimes called the "One over One").

Mr. Lenz, under his system of bidding, requires only 2 honor-tricks to open the bidding. This minimum is, in my judgment, entirely too low, but it is a minor factor in the hand under discussion, which is shown below:

Mr. Lenz, as I indicated above, opened the bidding with one club, although he was using the Approach-Forcing System he must have passed his hand, which contained no tricks whatever outside the club suit. Mrs. Culbertson doubled. Under our system this required a minimum of 3 honor-tricks in the hand and implied ability to stand a spade response. Mr. Jacoby, whose particular forte is bidding designed

FORMER ANNAPOLIS YOUTH FOUND DEAD

Student Who Stirred Academy With Experiments Is Called Suicide

Baltimore —(AP)—John A. Cygon, 19, whose experiments with electric remote control at the Annapolis Naval academy led to his resignation from the institution about a year ago, was found dead in his bed at his home here yesterday. A verdict of suicide was given by the coroner who said a tube from which a deadly gas had been released was found in the youth's hands.

Young Cygon's case at the naval academy caused nation-wide attention. In announcing his resignation, academy officials said that in the course of electrical experiments he had established remote control of the elevator, clocks and lighting systems of Bancroft hall and had arranged things so that he could cut in on the direct telephone of the academy without the service of an operator.

After his resignation he was offered positions by several firms interested in capitalizing his knowledge of electricity but he decided to seek admission to the West Point Military academy. It was understood he had received a conditional appointment to that institution.

The youth's father, Major R. Cygon, of the Third Army Corps area, declared his son had died from a heart attack. He said there was no connection between the tube and his son's death. The youth, he explained, had been experimenting with such tubes for some time. The coroner on the other hand said Cygon had inhaled the gas, a type used in hospitals in limited quantities to reduce pain.

INTEREST NOW AT LOW EBB IN STOCK MARKET

Margin Trading Almost Non-existent as New Year Makes Appearance

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright, 1932, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York—Speculative interest in the stock market as the year opens is at low ebb. Margin trading is almost non-existent, as the growing decline in brokers' loans testifies. No official statistics as to the extent of the short interest are available on the period since Nov. 30. On that date contracts for the decline were outstanding in the amount of $7,750,000 shares. The maximum was $5,897,500 shares on May 25.

It is not believed that the short account has been increased since Nov. 30. More probably it has been substantially decreased. The general disposition on the part of professional has been to stand aside and await events. For one thing the price level has been too low to justify any selling campaign and then there has been the prospect of a congressional inquiry which might prove embarrassing. All told, the activities of the investment bankers have been confined to transactions for the most part which could be closed out in one day.

During December the selling pressure came not from speculators but from investors taking losses for tax purposes and from genuine liquidation inspired sometimes by discouragement and more often by necessity.

Cash On Market
For it is true that during the recent period of credit restriction by the banks there was only one place where cash could always be obtained and that was the stock market, which had to bear the burden.

How much the situation has been changed by the turn of the year remains to be seen. Of course there is no more tax selling to fear. On the other hand, the outside public has shown no desire to enter the market and the professionals have no decided opinion on the immediate future. There has been buying for the account of strong interests, but that has been on a scale down and signs of its appearance has brought about nothing more than a short covering.

This buying, according to those best informed, has centered in steel and oil shares, with here and there the accumulation of a few of the better rubs. It has had little or no effect on prices so far.

For the present the street looks to the bond market rather than to the share list for guidance. A pronounced rally in bonds would have to bring into the bond market a part of the trading activity that ordinarily concerns itself only with stocks.

It takes more capital to speculate in bonds than the price swings are wider and the profits, if the commitment is well timed, are larger at present.

W. Irving Glover Accepts Invitation To Speak In Appleton

U. S. POSTAL CHIEF TO TALK AT CONFERENCE

Between 300 and 400 State Postmasters Expected Here on Jan. 16

What promises to be the biggest gathering of postoffice executives ever held in Appleton is scheduled for 6:30 Saturday evening, Jan. 16, at Conway hotel, according to Postmaster Emmery Greunke.

The principal speaker will be W. Irving Glover, Washington, D. C., second assistant Postmaster General of the United States. The topic of his address has not been announced. Glover is expected to come to Appleton by airplane, his customary mode of travel.

As second assistant postmaster general, Glover's department is in charge of airmail service, railway mail service, International Postal service, and railway adjustments.

Between 300 and 400 postmasters from throughout Wisconsin are expected to attend the meeting. Mr. Greunke says. Approximately 1,100 invitations were sent out and registrations already are being received.

Preliminary plans for the meeting were laid at two meetings of state postmasters in Milwaukee during the past two months. Appleton was given preference over Fond du Lac in the selection of the conference city because it is more centrally located, Mr. Greunke said.

Endorse Meeting
The meeting has been endorsed by Oliver R. Weinandy, Cochrane, president of the Wisconsin State League of the National League of District Postmasters of the United States; Thomas Walby, Hudson, president of the Wisconsin Association of Postmasters; W. C. Crocker, Spooner, president of the Postmaster Association for Civil Service; Col. E. P. Flanagan, Milwaukee, state director of the National Association of Postmasters of the United States and John S. Farrell, president of the Fox River Valley Postmasters club.

Members of the valley club are on the arrangements committee and are completing plans for the meeting. Mr. Greunke, Appleton postmaster, and Lawrence Fischer, Menasha, are members of the committee.

In addition to the dinner meetings in the evening two other meetings of postmasters' groups are scheduled for the afternoon. At 2 o'clock there will be a special session of the Wisconsin Association of Postmasters in the hotel, and at 2:30 there will be a conference of the executive committee of the state league.

After the dinner meetings, a business session. Short talks will be given by postmasters from various parts of the state, after which Mr. Glover will give the principal address.

SEEK NEW NAME FOR FIRST WARD SCHOOL

Parent-teacher Association Expected to Make Selection Tonight

First Ward parents and teachers will select by popular vote a new name for First Ward school Monday evening at the monthly Parent-Teacher meeting. The choice will then be submitted as a recommendation to the board of education for adoption.

First Ward school is the only grade school in the city which does not have an outstanding name. Several names which have been suggested for the school include local educators, as well as nationally known leaders in progress.

The name of Miss Carrie Morgan, present assistant superintendent of schools, has been suggested for the school, and that of the Samuel P. Jones, former president of Lawrence college. Miss Marie Culbertson, former First Ward grade school teacher and outstanding educator in Appleton. Other proposed names are the Thomas A. Edison or Charles A. Lindbergh school.

Jay I. Williams, music instructor in the public schools, will present the program. He will explain the use of stringed instruments in the schools and be assisted in his talk by the junior high school orchestra. A social meeting will follow the program with refreshments.

REDISTRICTING ACT VETO HAS COURT O. K.

Jefferson City, Mo. — (AP) — Gov. Caulfield's veto of the Missouri congressional redistricting act passed by the last legislature was upheld by the supreme court today. HUNT TWO MEN AFTER ASSAULT AND ROBBERY

Take Money Bag from Howard Hill in Tussle in Junction Hotel Basement

Appleton police are investigating the assault and robbery of Howard Hill, which occurred shortly before 1 o'clock this morning in the basement of the Junction hotel operated by Thomas T. Hill at 1225 W. Second-st. Between $50 and $60 in a money pouch is missing.

According to a story told by Hill, nephew of the hotel operator, he went to the basement to fire the furnace. While chopping wood he was slugged over the head with a pop bottle by two men. In a semi-conscious condition, Hill said, he drew his .38 calibre revolver and fired at the two men, but it is not believed either of the bullets took effect. The flattened bullets were found on the floor, and two marks were found on the stone wall where the slugs had struck about five feet above the floor.

He said after the men slugged him with the bottle one of them grabbed him and attempted to wrench his back. Hill said they fled from the building through the basement entrance. The injured man was found in a semi-conscious condition by George Hill, father of the hotel operator, who is visiting here.

According to police the two side doors to the hotel, one leading to the basement, and the other into the rear corridor, are always kept open during the evening, and that the two men had probably secreted themselves in the basement.

About a year ago Hill was stabbed in the arm with a knife in a similar tussle. Robbery also was the motive in that assault, it was stated.

SUSPECT ADMITS 4 BURGLARIES AT STOCKBRIDGE

Ozais C. Hall, in Calumet-co Jail, Bound Over to Circuit Court

Ozais C. Hall, Fond du Lac, is being held in Calumet-co jail at Chilton on a charge of having looted two general stores, a garage, and tin shop at Stockbridge during the period from Dec. 7 to 10. Hall was arraigned in justice court at Chilton Saturday morning, waived preliminary examination, and was bound over to the March term of circuit court. Bond, which was set at $3,000 by Justice John P. Hume, was not furnished.

Hall, who recently was released by Fond du Lac authorities who held him at a De Forest state bank robbery suspect, has confessed to the burglaries, according to Sheriff Gerhard Jensen, Calumet-co, and has implicated Herman Ringhand, Jr., son of a former Waupun police chief who is held in Madison as a suspect in the De Forest holdup, and John C. Schleyer, serving a 15 to 20 year sentence in the state prison at Waupun for the robbery.

Arrested Last Week
An investigation made by Fred W. Schlaack, private detective at Fond du Lac, and former sheriff, in conjunction with Sheriff Jensen, resulted in Hall's arrest late Thursday afternoon. Several hundred dollars worth of loot taken in the Stockbridge burglaries is expected to be returned to Detective Schlaack next week from an Illinois city, Calumet-co authorities said.

Detective Schlaack was called into the Calumet-co investigation after Stockbridge residents were convinced that the burglaries were the work of local talent. Few clues were left by the burglars and about the only thing Detective Schlaack had to work on was a pair of gloves found in one of the stores which had been burglarized.

The storekeeper claimed that he had sold the gloves to a nearby resident and the man was immediately suspected of the burglaries. Detective Schlaack, however, was convinced that the burglaries were the work of an outside gang and the first clue to verify his suspicions developed when Madison police reported the escape of a reckless driver who had driven a stolen car into Lake Mendota while being chased by a traffic officer.

Guns In Car
The abandoned car was found to have been licensed to a resident at Fond du Lac and was turned over to police here. Several guns and ammunition were found in the car.

Detective Schlaack found that the automobile was not owned by the Fond du Lac resident and that it had been stolen shortly before the Stockbridge burglaries. He learned the identity of the men who were believed to have stolen the car and Thursday went to Madison with Sheriff Jensen to question Ringhand in the Dane-co jail. Considerable information was obtained from the bank robbery suspect and on his return home Detective Schlaack stopped at Waupun, where he obtained additional information concerning the Stockbridge burglaries. Upon their return to Fond du Lac Detective Schlaack and Sheriff Jensen took Hall into custody.

When arrested Hall was wearing a pair of shoes which were later identified as having been stolen from the Stockbridge store. He wore the same shoes when questioned at the county jail at Fond du Lac and officers remarked that Hall and Ringhand both had on the same kind of footwear.

Burglaries at Stockbridge occurred Dec. 4, 7 and 10 but Hall and his companions were implicated only in those on Dec. 7 and 10. On the first night burglars broke into a school building but the entry is believed to have been the work of boys.

On Dec. 7 burglars broke into the Frank Kramer garage, the Nick Kulis tinshop and the John Moehn general store. Believing that other business places might be broken into a group of men slept in the George Hemmauer general store the nights of Dec 8 and 9 but nothing untoward occurred. There was no watch on Dec. 10 and that night the burglars broke into the Hemmauer store. Stockbridge residents were convinced then that a local burglary gang was responsible, believing that the thieves knew about the guard that was maintained in the Hemmauer store for two nights.

The Stockbridge loot included considerable cash, two electric toasters, an electric radio, an electric percolator, three flashlights, two canteens, razor blades, a dozen butcher knives, three carving sets, several electric irons, loaded automatic rifle, skates, razors, alarm clocks, scissors, watches, jewelry, shotgun shells, gloves, bedspreads, camera, candy and a cedar chest.

Masked Men Driven From Grocery Store By Dog

According to police, who were called to the grocery store by Heims, there were four men in the party, two of whom remained in the rumble seat of a blue Chevrolet coupe while the other two entered the store after being driven from the store by the dog, it is reported the men drove west on Highway 10. Heims old police that he refused to leave the building when the men asked for gasoline from his pump because he was suspicious of the men's actions.

One of the men was described as being about 25 years of age, five feet and six inches tall. He wore a dark overcoat and hat. The other was said to be between 25 and 30 years of age, and about five feet tall. He wore a black fur overcoat and dark cap.

Pinned Under Car

The boy with his two brothers, Frank and Henry, and sister, Katherine, was on his way to attend services at Holy Angels church at Darby when he lost control of the machine. The car tipped over into a ditch and the youngster was pinned under the car in two feet of water. He was saved from possible drowning when the car was lifted from his body by neighboring farmers.

The other occupants of the car escaped injury. The machine was demolished, it was reported. Sheriff Jensen was injured when the car he was driving and a machine driven by H. A. Kamps, Appleton, collided on Highway 57 near the north city limits of Chilton about 10 o'clock Sunday night. The collision occurred as Kamps attempted to turn left to enter the office of a greenhouse which he recently opened there, witnesses reported.

According to police records Frank was walking between the rails of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks headed toward Appleton Junction when he was struck by south bound train No. 226. He was cut about the head and legs, but it is not believed he was seriously injured. He was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital by police.

Frank was found by Police Chief George T. Prim and Officer Carl Radtke at the home of Mrs. Lillian Bartman, 323 N. Locust-st. He was in a dazed condition.

Meanwhile, Representative LaGuardia today sponsored a relief program which he said would enter fields where there was no question of the government's power.

A third would provide that government contracts for work and materials be let only to concerns operating on a five day basis.

LaGuardia also would authorize $50,000,000 to provide army-navy rations for the surplus of 200,000 men in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana for one year, also giving them vocational training for that time.

LaGuardia would authorize $20,000,000 to purchase 1,000,000 suits of clothing for men, 1,000,000 for women and children and 2,000,000 pairs of shoes. These would be manufactured entirely of domestic materials, and distributed through state or municipal agencies or directly by the labor department. ATTACK PUBLIC RELIEF BILLS AS DOLE MEASURES

LaFollette Bill Authorizes Appropriation of $250,000,000

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—During the hearings of a sub-committee of the Senate Committee on Manufactures on the emergency relief bills of Senators LaFollette of Wisconsin and Costigan of Colorado, constant references and frequent inquiry concerning the "dole" and its definition have been made. Both measures have been attacked and defended from charges of being dole measures.

Senator Robert M. LaFollette's bill authorizes the immediate appropriation of $250,000,000 for distribution to the states for relief work and it is intended as a temporary stop-gap to suffering until more technical measures to encourage business and provide employment can be acted upon. Sen. Costigan's bill is very similar although it authorizes the appropriation of $375,000,000, divided into $125,000,000 for the current fiscal year and $250,000,000 for the next fiscal year which ends June 30, 1933. They differ principally in minor details, save that Costigan's relief fund would go to every state according to its population while LaFollette's is intended only for states definitely asking for it and admitting their inability to cope with their relief problems entirely unaided.

Steering clear in their provisions of fixed and arbitrary amounts of funds fixed without regard for individual needs apparently eliminates something of the dole idea from both bills and especially from that of Sen. LaFollette, since even the apportionment to the several states is not arbitrarily fixed in his measure.

From Public Funds

Concerning this point, Linton B. Swift, a social worker from New York appearing at a committee hearing pointed out that 60 to 70 per cent of the relief given in the country as a whole has for years come from public funds.

Sen. Costigan asked 'Are these public funds regarded in the nature of gifts . . . ?'

Mr. Swift: " . . . If it is a fixed and inadequate and niggardly form of relief, then it is probably a dole. If, however, it is given upon a basis of individualization, then it is not a dole." (That is, if relief is given upon the basis of individual need and not automatically.)

Mr. Swift explained later that he used the word "dole" when the amount available for relief is inadequate, and being inadequate, cannot be based upon individual needs of families but becomes a more or less fixed amount.

In discussing the application of the word "dole" to federal funds and not to local funds, Sen. Costigan said to Walter West, executive secretary of the American Association of Social Workers, "You see no greater demoralization to the beneficiary through the use of federal than through state or other local funds?"

Mr. West: "So far as the beneficiary is concerned, he probably would not be aware of the difference, as to how the house felt or how the food tasted or anything else.

There is only one point of difference, it seems to me, and that is I think it would take off some of the curse of charity if he felt that it was the thing which the public, through federal action, had assumed as an obligation."

In the same vein, Linton Swift stated at one of the hearings, "I wish to make clear my conviction as a social worker that proposals for federal aid have no relation to the establishment de novo of a dole. A dole is a dole, whether it is given by an individual, a private charitable agency, a city, a state, or the federal government."

A bit more briefly, Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit and Paul U. Kellogg of the Survey Associates disposed of the much misused word, when asked their definitions.

Murphy said: "I think that the use of the word 'dole' follows the American habit of having slogans."

Kellogg said: "My definition of the dole is that it is a catchword being employed to confuse the public."

Hearings on the two bills will be resumed Monday and continue for at least a full week. A consolidation of the LaFollette and Costigan bills into one with provisions from both is anticipated as the finished and reported out work of the sub-committee.

"ABSOLUTELY IMPOSSIBLE"
The American Federation of Labor has thrown its influence behind the drive for the appropriation of federal funds for local unemployment relief. Its representative stated:
"The federation has always felt the problem of caring for the unemployed and the destitute is first a local problem to be solved by the community but when it is impossible for the community to do so, the county or state should lend their assistance."
The most carping critic is going to have difficulty in discovering anything unsound in that statement. But, as we proceed with the attitude of this speaker, we come across a perplexing problem.
He continues:
"If the states and communities admit that it is absolutely impossible for them to aid in this relief then the only agency that can be looked to is the federal government."
If the speaker said that the federal government must help when states and communities were unable to aid their own he would have made a statement with which all should agree. The real difficulty is over ascertaining the truth of an admission by a state "that it is absolutely impossible for it to carry on its relief."
If the mayors of our cities and the governors of our states were at the head of some military detachment in a tight place they would not readily run up the white flag and cry out that they were unable to carry on. Yet, there is noticeable a readiness upon their part to state that they are "absolutely destitute" and must have help from Washington when caution suggests that no wolf in fact is near.
In distress the heart is likely to run away with the head. That may be said in praise of humankind, but, unfortunately, the use of nothing but "principles of the heart" in relation to the operation of the government is too likely to bear distasteful fruit.
Who shall determine whether or not Wisconsin can carry on unaided? There would be a great temptation with any governor to ask for help. He would thus save his own people and take from others.
A governor of Wisconsin will easily believe that the people of New York or Nevada have more available funds than our own, that our distress is more acute and help should come this way, whereas the governors of other states, because of our lack of any state debt, will declare Wisconsin a paradise and tell Washington to inflict us with taxes, take the money and help support them.
And so, before this federation speaker finishes he must devise a plan whereby the principles which he has enunciated may be put into practical operation. The federal government must reserve the right to determine whether the cry from a state for help is made at the same time that it is hiding a big bankroll out in the woods or whether it accurately expresses the true statement of its condition.

MILWAUKEE AGAIN FAMOUS
Among the great municipalities of the nation, Milwaukee stands out like a well thumb midst a bunch of sore fingers. It takes rank as one of the best ordered cities, and deservedly so. Its treasury has a surplus and its debt is small. Because of an efficient police force the crime rate is exceedingly low.
Exponents of socialism present Milwaukee as an outstanding example of the virtues of that political faith. True, the city has a socialist mayor and a large/socialistic class, but beyond that bald statement there is no evidence that the city's fortunate condition is due to the theories and practices of scientific socialism. More to the point could the claim be advanced that Milwaukee acquired its present state in spite of Marxian theories.
Socialism is no more immune to abuse than any other form of government. Observing the distressing state of affairs in the socialistic commonwealths of Australia and New Zealand brings a realization of that fact.

Rather may Milwaukee's fortunate condition be attributed to the virtues of good sense, honesty and practical procedure in municipal government. No matter what the governmental form, whether it be a council system, a commission form or the city manager plan, it is the ability and conscientiousness of the men behind it that counts most.
But they must be supported of course by a people alive to what is going on about them, proud of a good municipal record, and therefore insistent upon a sensible and practical plan of operations.

NOW WE ARE ALONE
Finland, having debonairly but blindly followed America's lead in the adoption of prohibition, thinking of course that America could not be wrong, has determined by referendum, after thirteen years' experience, to try to tear itself free from bootlegging and corruption, bribery and raw booze, and all the filth of the moral delinquency and turpitude that unfortunately has accompanied an effort aimed at the improvement of people and their conditions.
Aside from the Moslems with their murderous dirks, America now stands alone in its adherence to prohibition. It has selected a high and haughty seat atop the loftiest of the Himalayas. Its attitude and altitude are austere and forbidding. Its position is cold and unbending. It has become the hermit nation of the world.
We might be content to think that "they are never alone that are accompanied with noble thoughts," but such an innocent reverie is rudely shattered by the rat-a-tat-tat of machine guns, the rumble of beer trucks, or the lurching of children besotted with gin.
Year after year conditions have grown worse, steadily and persistently worse. Since the first slight improvement following the war the trend has been straight down into the pit. Only a few who live in fortunate parts of the country or become hermits themselves, are unaware of the truth.
But the really sorry part of it all is the little attention that is paid to that once "immortal and sacred document," the constitution.
Yet it could hardly be otherwise. The constitution was only great because we had heretofore, almost invariably, put into it supreme and practical principles having to do with securing liberty, protecting the rights of individuals, even sometimes from the unreasoning of the majority. When we put into it something that in fact was nonsense we did not thereby with magic wand transmute it into an imperishable principle.
We have permitted ourselves to be misled, cajoled, mesmerized with promises and gaudy pictures as simply as children.
We have closed our eyes and smilingly daydreamed in pleasant, perfumed Elysian fields.
It is time to get up. There is work to do.

Opinions Of Others
PROGRESSIVES AND SOCIALISTS
When the Wisconsin legislature adjourned, State Senator Thomas M. Duncan, a Milwaukee Socialist, became executive secretary to Governor La Follette. The appointment was not a complete surprise. Senator Duncan, whose ability and political astuteness are recognized on all sides, was closer to the executive than any of the Progressives. He was, in effect, the administration spokesman, and, as head of the Joint Finance committee, held the most important chairmanship in the legislature.
Socialists will accept their loss philosophically. What Wisconsin Socialists would like to believe is that the governor has become a Socialist. That label would make a good political talking point. But the promise of progressivism and of socialism have little in common. The impression that they are practically one probably springs from the concern for the rights of the "common man" found in both. But the La Follette interpretation of these rights is grounded in the pioneer tradition of individualism and equality of opportunity, whereas the Socialist sees the individual only as part of the social system.
Thus it is that Progressives are alarmed over chain stores and monopolistic developments in banking and industry. On the other hand, the Socialist regards centralization of capital with satisfaction because he thinks it will facilitate the social control which he foresees. On so vital a question as electric power the two "isms" are in conflict.
La Follette is not socialism, and neither is progressivism nor liberalism. Duncan, the Socialist leader, now becomes Duncan, the Progressive follower. In La Follette there is no God but La Follette. And if the Almighty chooses to pass by his old followers and smile on a smart young Socialist, the deed must not be questioned.—New York Times.

POST-MORTEM
THERE'S at least one good thing about the way 1932 has started out . . . nobody has been making statements about the new era which 1932 will bring . . . about how prosperity will come rushing back in full force . . . they all it last year and since, the happy-days-are-here-back into hiding, to nobody's predicting anything, so now maybe pleasant things will happen . . . anyway, it's nice not to have to digest any Pollyannaism this year . . .

Football gave its last gasp on New Year's Day and will probably hibernate until next fall with occasional references to spring practice and new coaches. Baseball soon grabs off some space with its winter training season. The king for the time being is basketball. All of which brings us around to the story about Doc Meanwell, basketball coach at Wisconsin, for which we are indebted to Hank McCormick, Madison sports writer.
The story is about "Whitey" Budrunus, Marquette center, who stopped in front of the Doc's bench, near the end of the Marquette-Wisconsin game again by Marquette, to yell out a couple of loud "boos" at the little Doctor.
They asked the doctor, after the game, if he didn't think the act was unsportsmanlike.
"Oh, I don't think so . . . you see, he's only a youngster. His team had defeated Wisconsin for the second straight year and it was a big thing for him . . . It was a youngster's trick, I admit . . . but I don't know as I blame him."
That, Tillie, is what you call being a gentleman.
Finland has apparently repealed its prohibition law, modeled much after ours. Finland's experience was pretty much like ours. Now let's see what happens with prohibition come and gone over there. Give the Finns credit, they have at least done something about a tremendously important problem.

The Democrats are in a hole. If conditions improve materially during the next few months, the Republicans will take credit for the change. If they don't, the Democrats will have a problem getting cash enough together to finance a successful presidential campaign.
But being in the hole isn't a new experience to a Democrat. There have been several in our family.

Just Folks

WINTER
Winter comes to field and glen,
And the brave youth of the Spring
And the song of thrush and wren,
And the trees gay blossoming
Fade before the cruel blast
Into glories of the past.
All things have their winter time.
Toys lie broken with the years.
Eyes that danced with joys sublime
Soon or late are dimmed by tears.
Youth itself becomes at last
But a memory of the past.
It is well that spring should go,
And that summer bloom should fade;
Well that every joy we know
Must pass onward, undelayed.
For if pleasure could remain,
So could grief and loss and pain.
Not alone do splendors lie
Under winter's shroud of snow.
Every wind has driven by
Many a care and touch of woe.
Where the blasts of winter sweep,
By-gone disappointments sleep.

Personal Health Talks
By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

VEGETARIANS ARE PHYSICALLY INFERIOR
The relation of diet to physique and health is a question of great interest today, owing to the newer knowledge of the vitamins and to the astonishing applications of this knowledge in the field of human nutrition. There is one important drawback or weakness about this whole study which too many nutrition experts or authorities forget when offering their startling conclusions or presumptions to the public, and that is the fact that rats or guinea pigs may thrive to live on food which will scarcely suit children's nutritive needs. This is one reason why we should use the inmates of penal institutions as material for scientific medical experimentation for the benefit of mankind.
J. B. Orr and J. L. Gilks, British government medical research service, have made a study of the nutrition of two neighboring African tribes, one of which, the Akikuyu tribe, is almost exclusively vegetarian, and the other, the Masai, chiefly carnivorous in habit. The diet of the Akikuyu consisted largely of cereals, roots and fruits, the bulk of the diet being cereals. The Masai diet consisted of milk, meat and raw blood.
The full grown Masai male was found to be five inches taller and 23 pounds heavier than the full grown Akikuyu male, on the average. The carnivorous Masai tribesman was found to have 50 per cent greater strength than the vegetarian Akikuyu tribesman, measured by the dynamometer. Many other differences were noted, which rather tend to shatter many of our preconceived notions about diet. For instance the vegetarian Akikuyu was found much more subject to bony deformities, cavities or decay of the teeth and anemia than was the carnivorous Masai.
The carnivorous tribe, however, showed a greater prevalence of intestinal stasis and of rheumatoid arthritis than did the vegetarian tribe. The intestinal stasis may be fairly ascribed to the character of the diet, but certainly no one knows enough about "rheumatoid arthritis" or any form of joint trouble by whatever name distinguished, to draw any conclusions from its prevalence in such a tribe.
The complete report of this interesting and informative investigation is published in Medical Research Council Special Report Series, No. 155, by His Majesty's Stationery Office, London, price two shillings.
The outstanding study in this country, in respect to the effects of carnivorous diet, is that made by a group of physicians, chemists and physiologists upon the explorer Stefansson and his associate Anderson while these two men voluntarily subsisted on a purely carnivorous diet for the period of a year, under constant scientific observation. The general conclusion from this study was that a carnivorous diet is entirely adequate for the nutritive needs of man. There was no indication that such a diet causes any of the ills so nonchalantly ascribed to "too much meat" by old fogy physicians and newfangled mailorder or radio food specialists.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Foods for Excessive Acidity of Urine
Please give a list of foods which will help overcome excessive acidity of the urine. Is tea harmful in that respect, if taken in moderation? (L. K. A.)
Answer—Lemons, oranges, grapefruit, limes, tomatoes, weak tea, milk and all the fresh vegetables and greens are particularly valuable. Of course the fruit juices or undiluted fruit beverages are almost as good as the fruits themselves.
Baby Has Navel Hernia
Eighteen months old baby has protruding navel. We can't afford to take him to doctor now. (M. M. S.)
Answer—He should wear a suitable belt with a pad to prevent the protrusion. Such a support will perhaps give a permanent cure after a year. I can't imagine you about it if you can't afford to have a doctor attend to it. It is your duty to take the baby at once to the nearest free dispensary or clinic for proper care.
Ma and Pa in Old Battle
Our house is heated with hot water system. Husband says I cool the water off by keeping one window open about an inch at night. He declares there is plenty of air in the house and that bedroom windows should be kept closed at night. (Mrs. H. J. E.)
Answer—Well, it is not ground for divorce, unless in Nevada. What the air conditions in your house may be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.
The Tinymites
By Hal Cochran
THE Tinies looked the rocket o'er and Scouty said, "We've seen a score of more of very funny things while we've been traveling all around. We've seen great caves and castles high and even mot folk in the sky, but, gee, I must admit this is the strangest thing we've found."
The man then said, "Climb right inside. It's built for comfort, on a ride. You'll notice I've made windows so the folks can look right out. Then, when up in the air they go, the ground can be seen, down below. Most people wouldn't have the nerve to ride in it, no doubt."
"Oh, shucks, it wouldn't frighten me," said Clowny. "How glad I would be, if I could just sit down and then go whizzing through the air. I'm sure that I'd be safe and sound, unless it tumbled to the ground. You see, it takes a lot to give a lad like me a scare."
This made the other Tinies smile. Said Copy, "You'd sail for a mile and then you'd start to wish that you were back upon the earth. We've seen you do queer stunts before and every time you start to roar. It seems that fright is bound to make you shout for all you're worth."
Soon Copy said, "I'll tell you what! If Clowny thinks that he's so hot, let's all go riding in this rocket. I am not afraid." And then they asked the man, who said, "Well I don't mind, lads. Go ahead! If you will all sit down inside, a fine flight shall be made."
"But, let me give you some advice, to help the trip turn out real nice. When you are in the cabin, just sit still. Don't move around. Now go ahead and all climb in and then the trip will soon begin. I'll stay out here and make the rocket shoot up off the ground."

He Steals The Show
Here's an illustration—
The other night Secretary "Pat" presided at a very formal banquet in Washington, attended by several hundred guests. Before he finished he had so delighted everybody that they cheered him lustily as a future President, unanimously voted him as a toastmaster extraordinary, and rushed him for his autograph.
He won them over by the sheer force of his personality.
Smoking a cigaret as long as a pencil, immaculate in evening dress and wisecracking like nobody's business, he was the main show.
And this last despite the fact that a electrical engineer put on a demonstration that fairly took one's breath.
He told of his participation in the famous "Battle of Polcott Creek" when he was a private soldier in Indian territory. He twitted the chief of army engineers for what he termed his Andrew Jackson mania and disclosed that another distinguished guest was known to his intimates as "Huckleberry Finn."
And Gallant, Too
Gallantly he came to the rescue of a senator's wife seated beside him who was having difficulty in opening a container of frozen crushed peaches.
He blushed like a young boy when discovered in the act of "snitching" a buttonhole from a bowl of flowers in front of him.
He gallantly assisted the engineer in his electrical demonstration. He threatened to tell untold stories on the speakers he introduced. He lamented the fact that a member of congress whose first name is "Riley" had to be known by his last name.
In fact, he did about everything. His face was red as a beet when they sprang to their feet and cheered.

Chilly around the ankles? That's easily stopped.

Seen And Heard In New York
BY WILLIAM GAINES
New York — James Augustin Aloysius Joyce, at 49, is about to become a grandfather. What's more, after a long and valiant struggle against blindness, he will be able to see his grandchild.
Do the middle names confuse you? Surely you've had a curiosity to read—try to read—James Joyce's "Ulysses," that strangely worded and unorthodox novel. But, of course, you can't get it in this country, unless you buy a bootleg edition.
Herbert Gorman, authorized biographer of the Irish iconoclast, tells me about Joyce. Gorman has just returned from Paris, where he spent much time with him.
The wife of Joyce's son, Giorgio, is an American. Preparations for a new arrival at their home in Paris share the author's interest with the book on which he labors furiously against the odds of his affliction.
Since the severe attack of glaucoma, in Zurich in 1916, he has undergone nine operations on one eye and two on the other.
Joyce now is able to see to write, Gorman says. He uses glasses, of course, and must keep his eyes close to his paper, fashioning large letters into an esoteric language of his own.
Did you say there were insurmountable difficulties in your path?
A Newspaper Man
Joyce, native of Dublin, but virtually an exile because of political differences with fellow Irishmen, never granted an interview or authorized an article about himself until Gorman, an American newspaperman, got hold of him.
Gorman is a Springfield, Mass., product. He learned how to go out and get his man when he began work on a newspaper there in 1915. In 1918 he landed on his first paper here.
Two years ago he went abroad and met Joyce in London. It took considerable persuasion to win the Irishman's confidence. A factor in Gorman's success was his book published here in 1924, "James Joyce—His First Forty Years."
Gorman went to Paris with Joyce, worked with him, even took dictation for him in the darkest period of his struggle. Now he is back with the mass of material for the biography.
503 Joyce Letters
The material includes about 450 copies of letters written by Joyce and more than 60 originals. Most of this correspondence was addressed to his brother, Stanislas, a professor of English in Trieste.
Gorman has months of work ahead of him. He was itching to get out of his cramped hotel room into an apartment, so he could get busy. He has the enthusiasm and appearance of a youth. He is 38.
Joyce's new book is even more complex than "Ulysses," Gorman says. Provocative parody and symbolism streak through the jumble of activity in a man's mind during a night of sleep. Joyce coins new words and dislocates old ones to suit his purpose.
The book is divided into four parts, which Joyce associates with the "four watches of sleep." They are the light, early sleep; the deeper sleep; the profoundest sleep of all, and the last light sleep before awakening, with traces of daylight penetrating consciousness.
Strangely, the degrees of Joyce's blindness have corresponded to those watches of sleep, with the return of vision as his labor nears its end.

KOTEX CO. WINS SUIT OVER NAME

New Jersey Corporation Restrained from Using Name for Product

Neenah — In a decision made recently by the United States Supreme court Kotex, Inc., a New Jersey corporation, is restrained from using the name "Kotex" and "Kotabs" in connection with the tablets offered for sale by them under the name of "Kotex tablets."

The decision, which is a result of a suit brought by the Kotex company of Chicago, enjoins the defendants from manufacturing, marketing, selling for sale, or distributing or displaying any boxes, receptacles, labels, etc., bearing the name "Kotex" or the name "Kotabs."

In its decision the higher court upheld the findings of the lower courts to the effect that the rights of the Kotex company with respect to the word "Kotex" were not limited to the use of the word solely in connection with the single product to which it had been applied by the Kotex company.

The court pointed out that in appropriating the trade-mark of the Kotex company and playing upon its trade name, the defendants intended to appropriate its good-will for which its trade-mark stands and upon which its very existence depends.

HOOVER URGES ACTION ON HIS ECONOMY PLAN

Wants Non-Partisan Vote on Eight Measures in His Proposal

"restriction of issues of federal securities."

The text of the president's message follows:

"At the convening of the congress on Dec. 1, I laid proposals before it designed to check the further degeneration in prices and values, to fortify us against continued shocks from world instability and to unshackle the forces of recovery."

"The need is manifestly even more evident than at the date of my message a month ago."

"I should be derelict in my duty if I did not at this time emphasize the paramount importance to the nation of constructive action upon these questions at the earliest possible moment."

Consulted Experts

"These recommendations have been largely developed in consultations with leading men of both parties, of agriculture, of labor, of banking and of industry."

"They furnish the basis for full collaboration to effect constructive action. They have no partisan character. We can and must replace the unjustifiable fear in the country by confidence."

"The principal subjects requiring immediate action are:

"1. The strengthening of the federal bank system to aid the farmer and to maintain at the highest level the credit of the nation, which furnish agriculture with much needed capital. This measure has passed the house of representatives and is now before the senate."

"2. The creation of a reconstruction finance corporation to furnish during the period of the depression credits otherwise unobtainable under existing circumstances in order to give confidence to the agriculturist, industry and labor against further paralyzing influences."

"By such prompt assurance we can reopen many credit channels and reestablish the normal working of our commercial organization and thus contribute greatly to reestablishing the resumption of employment and stability in prices and values."

Discount Banks Plan

"3. The creation of a system of home loan discounts in order to secure employment by new construction and to mitigate the difficulties of many of our citizens in securing renewals of mortgages on their homes and farms. It has the further purpose of permanent encouragement of home ownership."

"To accomplish these purposes we must so liberate the resources of the country banks, the savings banks and the credit and loan associations as to restore these institutions to normal functioning. Under the proposal before the congress most of the capital of these discount banks would be subscribed by the institutions participating in their use and such residue as might be necessary for the federal government to supply temporarily would be repaid in time by such institutions when they were fully organized."

"This restriction in times such as these limits the liquidity of the banks and tends to increase the forces of deflation, cripples the smaller businesses, stifles new enterprise and thus compounds the depression."

"I recommend an enlargement of these discount privileges to take care of emergencies."

Is Given Support

"To meet the needs of our situation it will not be necessary to go even as far as the current practice of foreign institutions of similar character. Such a measure has the support of most of the governors of the federal reserve banks."

"The development of a plan to assure early distribution to depositors in closed banks is necessary to relieve distress among millions of small depositors and small businesses, and to release vast sums of money now frozen."

"6. Revision of the laws relating to transportation in the direction recommended by the Interstate Commerce commission would strengthen our principal transportation systems and restore confidence in the bonds of our railways."

"These bonds are held largely by our insurance companies, our savings banks, and benevolent trusts, and are therefore the property of nearly every family in the United States. The railways are the largest employer of labor and purchaser of goods."

"The restoration of banking laws in order to better safeguard depositors."

Confidence Needed

"8. The country must have confidence that the credit and stability of the federal government will be maintained by drastic economy in expenditure; by adequate increase of taxes; and by restriction of issues of federal securities."

"The restoration of confidence in prices of government securities is a serious warning which reflects the fear of further large and unnecessary issues of such securities. Promptness in adopting an adequate budget relief to taxpayers by resolute economy and restriction in security issues is essential to remove this uncertainty."

"Combating a depression is, in itself, a great feat in that it is not battle upon a single front but upon many fronts. These measures are all a necessary addition to the efficient and courageous efforts of our citizens throughout the nation. Our people through voluntary measures and through state and local action are providing for distress."

"Through the organized action of employers they are securing distribution of employment and thus mitigating the hardships of the depression."

"Through the mobilization of national credit associations they are aiding the country greatly. Our duty is to supplement these steps as to make their efforts more fruitful."

U. S. Stands Alone

"The United States has the resources and resilience to make a large measure of recovery independent of the rest of the world. Our internal economy is our primary concern and we must fortify our economic structure in order to meet any situation that may arise and by so doing lay the foundations for recovery."

"This does not mean that we are insoluble to the welfare of other nations or that our own self-interest is not involved in economic rehabilitation abroad which would restore the markets for our agricultural and other commodities. But it is our duty to devote ourselves to the problems of our own internal economy and not, as the first step, to domestic welfare but as our best contribution to the stability of the world as a whole."

"Action in these matters by the congress will go far to reestablish confidence, to restore the functioning of our economic system, and to rebuilding of prices and values and to quickening employment. Our justified hope and confidence for the future rests upon the efforts of our people and of the government in prompt and courageous action."

Herbert Hoover.

Can't Make Every Child Be A Leader

BY ANGELO PATRI

There are two boys in a family that hold college honors in high esteem. The family tradition is one of culture, success, honorable place. One boy is going ahead in the accepted manner. He wins friends everywhere. He stands at the head of his classes, he leads on the playground, he is successful wherever he goes. The family adore him, praise him and magnify him. He is adding glory to their name and "Praise ye him," is their daily anthem.

The second boy is nothing like that. He dislikes books and all their ways. He doesn't make friends easily. He cannot hit a ball once out of ten times and he doesn't care. His eyes are poor and he frowns a lot in his effort to see things clearer. When he is scolded about his shortcomings he has nothing to say. He is silent and his silence seems to deepen whenever he is brought into the family council. His parents are doing all they know how to make this "Crow" into a "Peacock." It can't be done. What is more, it is dangerous to try doing it. You kill the "Crow" and you get no "Peacock."

Education can develop and train what gifts the child has. It cannot add a single quality. It cannot make a single gift. If your child dislikes books you can't make him a scholar. If he loves books you cannot make him a happy laborer. If your daughter has no voice you cannot make an opera singer of her. If she wants to be a nurse you might better agree than try to force her to become a teacher. It is an old story, so old you would think that everybody in the world knew it by heart. Maybe they do. Maybe it is the older habit of thinking. "For you, but not for me." "The neighbor's child may be something else but MY child is just what I wish him to be." That's the wrong answer and it won't work.

Fathers and mothers have ambitions for their children and rightly but unless they gauge their ambition by the child's powers they are going to come to grief and bring the child down with them. Money won't buy intelligence, or grace, or beauty. It can help provide a background for them if they already exist. A parent's love for poetry, music, drama will not give a favorite child a talent for any of them. It will stimulate a talent that is already there, but it cannot create even the ghost of one.

What's the matter with being a "Crow" anyway? If he wasn't a useful bird he would not have been about. There are many happy useful Crows going about their own business without regard to the Peacocks. The shame of their situation exists only in the minds of those who see it. The Crow can't for the life of him see it or understand it. All he knows is that he is being pushed out of his nest and his friendly meadow to no good end that he can see.

The staticians say that 6 per cent of the people are gifted. I doubt it. I'd put the figure at far less. Six per cent think they are gifted and the other ninety-four know they are not. All you have to do to agree with me is to read the books that are written, hear the songs that are sung, look at the pictures that are painted and the sculpture that is being turned out. You will know then the rarity of the true Peacock. Wouldn't it be awful if the whole community were leaders.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

GROUPS ELATED AT WOMAN'S SELECTION AS ARMS DELEGATE

W o m e n's Organizations Have Good Start for Coming Year

BY SUE McNAMARA

Washington—(AP)—President Hoover's appointment of Miss Mary E. Woolley as a delegate to the Geneva disarmament conference puts women's organizations of the country off to a good start on the new year.

For months numbers of them have been circulating petitions and passing resolutions calling upon President Hoover to send a woman on this important mission.

Now, they begin 1932 apparently content on this score—at last they have a direct voice in the momentous questions to come before the conference.

In Miss Woolley they see a calm, controlled but firm personality who will speak for them in no uncertain terms.

Her appointment is the president's answer to earnest women's faces thronging the historic east room of the White House, to resolution upon resolution passed by the National Woman's party, to eloquent speeches made from coast to coast.

Jane Addams and Helen Taft Manning, daughter of former President Taft, were in the throng which presented him with a petition bearing thousands of signatures asking disarmament.

Signers had been obtained from California to Maine by a valiant little band of women who had made the journey by automobile.

There were white-haired women and young college girls in the group which represented the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

An Apology!

The Appleton Kings Daughters are extremely sorry that Casper Reda's Orchestra did not play at their Charity Ball as advertised.

They also wish to exonerate Mr. Charles Maloney from any blame for the substitute orchestra change which had to be made at the last minute.

The COMMITTEE

ASK $110,000 FOR CONGRESS WIDOWS

Each of Ten May Get $10,000, With Same Amount for One Mother

Washington—(AP)—In the first appropriation bill submitted to the house, the widows of ten former representatives and the mother of one were remembered.

First item in the deficiency bill recommended by the appropriations committee today was $110,000 for these women, $10,000 each. This gift has been customary for years.

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, widow of the late speaker—Nicholas Longworth of Ohio—and daughter of the late President Roosevelt, is a beneficiary.

The mother of the late Representative Matthew W. O'Malley of New York, and the widows of the following members are provided for:

Ernest R. Ackerman, New Jersey; James B. Aswell, Louisiana; Charles G. Edwards, Georgia; George S. Graham, Pennsylvania; Fletcher Hale, New Hampshire; Samuel C. Major, Missouri; Charles A. Mooney, Ohio; Bird J. Vincent, Michigan, and Harry M. Wurzbach, Texas.

Widows of three members-elect who died, were provided for by the last congress.

FILMS USED IN BOSTON. SCHOOLS EXPERIMENT

Cambridge, Mass.—(AP)—The Harvard University Graduate School of Education begins this week an experiment in the use of talking pictures in education in junior high schools in greater Boston.

The tests to discover the value of films as a supplementary aid in teaching science will be made in the junior high schools of Lynn, Quincy and Revere and will continue for six weeks.

Three hundred students will be instructed with films and textbooks and a larger "control group" will be instructed with text books alone. At the end of the period both groups will be given tests which were devised by the Harvard Graduate School of Education. The work is being done under a grant of $25,000 from the Carnegie Foundation for the advancement of Teaching.

The material in the course consists of eight units of study, six from the university film foundation and two from the Western Electric company. The films deal with physiology and biology, each unit consisting of a chapter of text together with a talking film presenting the fundamentals of the subject.

CHIMNEYSWEEP MAYOR

London—The new Mayor of Bethnal Green, H. Brooks, has been a chimneysweep all his life, and at the age of 64, has no intention of dropping his trade. Brooks has been a member of the borough council ever since it was formed in 1900, and has had the ambition to be mayor for years. He learned to sweep chimneys from his father at the age of 12, and it is the only trade he has known.

The Shop Window

By PEGGY POST

SAW SOME extra desirable shoe values at WALK-OVER SHOE SHOP that will pay you all to go over and look into. The shoes here are all Walk-Over quality that everyone knows with the added incentive of being low priced. Dress shoes, street shoes, walking shoes and health shoes, they're all lined up waiting for the lucky lady to fit the slipper as comfortable as any cinderella ever stuck her foot into!

HERE'S SOMETHING every woman will want to know... what 1932 brings in the way of clothes! Well if you saw some of the beautiful spring dresses at GREENEN'S that are being unpacked practically on the heels of the infant year, you'd certainly gasp. Colors are going riotous for the season with everything glittering by night except the backgrounds of the over popular prints at this time of year. Prints are brilliant... preferably floral effects... on black or dark backgrounds. Pumpkin, an alluring betwixt and between shade of red and orange, leads the list with Persian green, French blues and tile running a close second. Gold is a fetching season color, particularly good looking with brown or black combinations.

Speaking of combinations, it's smarter this year to have two colors instead of one... with the top of the gown bright or plain and the skirt in print or two tones of crepe shades. Noticed that bodices and sleeves are thoroughly individual with the long flowing sleeves in distinct flavor. Other high lights gathered on GREENEN'S second floor mean that evening frocks have turned to modest sleeves or capes the five o'clock dress has unusual necklines, quite low, with short sleeves, and rough crepes are in the know for daytime wear. One's afternoon and dress-up frock must be ankle length with no hesitation and must be worn with jewelry. You'll find metal blouses are back with a big bang, especially recommended for informal wear. One of these lovely by metals are the very thing for hostessing because they carry an air of savoir faire and keep a gown from being too showy.

By the way this is the week to pick up some valuable mid season bargains at the store. You'll find sale dresses as low as $2.95 (daring street frocks in this group) up to the better gowns reduced to $20.75. By all indications it looks like a bright new year as far as appearances are concerned at any rate!

HATS still stick to turban shapes for a good start in this year with colors brightly proclaiming a bit of variety on the horizon. Saw all the new hats unpacked at VOGUE HAT SHOP and this is what I found: veils must be the perky nose variety... turbans don't have brims but they have attractive rolled edges... colors run riot with all the vividness imaginable. They're terribly darling.

"START THE new year right," says Elynn, "with a bright and shining face." There's a trace of 1931 worries or frowns on it. No fooling, though, one of ELYNN'S facials would set anybody up because they are so thorough and restful. It's funny how a dab of cold cream, cleansers and rubs all done at the right time and in the right manner will make one's face so lovely. The point is to give the right person do it for you and that person is Elynn. Telephone 411.

JIG-SAWED the New Year in actually... with much gusto Thursday evening and the party was an immediate success when the funny little puzzle from TREASURE BOX GIFT SHOP was dumped upon the card table. It's such fun piecing the wooden pictures together in this new game that's being done just everywhere. This shop has puzzles from solitary sizes to large crowds for rent as well as for sale. Everyone was doing them at holiday parties and I for one certainly vote strongly for jig-saws as the best little ice breaker ever created!

AFTER ALL the holiday cooking and worry about this and that for extra guests it might be a good idea for all housewives to declare a holiday! Just up and tell the family that they'll have a gorgeous meal... but not at home. Then take you and yours over to the CANDLE GLOW TEA ROOM and surprise them all with a lovely Sunday dinner. You'll find all the advantages of a delicious atmosphere, excellent food and service instead of serving. It really is a splendid idea that has been successfully tried!

GALPIN'S has an interesting gadget with which to sneak up on a wall register in the living room and stop for once and for all the winter colds and sniffles resulting from dry and hot rooms. Beautifully designed the small cabinets sit over the register, humidifying the room completely. The adjustable back of the thing makes it accommodate any wall register, the humidifier pan and wick hidden on the inside are directly in front of the register so that the air must pass through a spout sort of clock before it comes into the room. Lovely things in a wide selection of finishes... though its really furniture steel... American walnut... red mahogany... brown mahogany and oak.

It's grand walking at sundown full in the face of the fading sky... the only drawback is that you might think you're too busy... but you have no idea how gorgeous the winter sky becomes in a few minutes as it constantly changes color shapes and forms ahead of you.

WHAT A GRAND hubbub at IDEAL PHOTO and GIFT SHOP this week with all sorts of things from neckties to what-nots on tables, counters and walls in a gala sale! Jewelry (and what choice jewelry, too). Stationery of both clever and conservative types, gavel plaques and charming pictures are included. Now's the time to fix up the house a bit with attractive pictures and prints going for half price... or purchase one of the clever line-arters for the new year.

MITHRIBAN and LILITAN spell magic designs at DIDER-RICH'S seen in the gorgeous weavings of the Orientals in the window... beautiful patterns in reproduction of old, old designs that grow more beautiful with the years. Turkish type rugs with long, silky nap and medium texture, these imports are simply superb in quality as well as beauty. Perhaps you've noticed the other rug window, too, filled with brighter inexpensive rugs. These are the new washable chenilles with fine washed yarn rugs in the background of Wilton origin.

If this weather keeps up we'll soon be getting out the old sweaters and scarfs and breeches to pretend we know how to skate or take a thriller on the like flat down in an ice boat.

DON'T WASTE much time to take a trip to HERNIMES HOBBIES SHOP this week. Wait within... knitted suits, jerseys in adorable two piece varieties and novelty wools are being priced at the immeasurable value of $2.95! Being sport these are the very sort of dreses to trip around town and afternoon duties in... and if you're one of those ladies who men, well here's the place to find an unusually good looking work-a-day dress with that extra edge smartness.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

"A M I late?" It was Ruth's voice that danced into the room. Not the quiet, somber voice that it had been. But a new one that thrilled a little with some sparkling surprise.

Sue leaned forward. Ruth must be more than satisfied with the change, she was thinking.

But the girl who came into the room didn't look any more like the one that had been talking a little while ago. This girl was just as slim and straight, of course. But instead of the old brown outfit she had on a dark red chiffon velvet dress. The kind that looked as though a thousand roses had grown dark enough to make it. It had great full sleeves that were caught at the wrists by small bands of gold beads. A row of the velvet, touched with the same beads, went around the waist. It flared at the hem.

The color made Ruth's hair and eyes shine. It made her cheeks more flushed. Sue's eyes traveled over her swiftly. Her slippers were of a velvet that matched the dress. She was carrying a coat. A soft broadcloth of the same color with a great collar of some sort of light fur.

Sue smiled her approval. She noticed the puzzled wonder in Jack's eyes. She knew that he was trying to figure out just why Ruth was so much more attractive, all of a sudden, than she had been before. A man, Sue knew, couldn't understand the miracle that clothes could bring about. Not only that they themselves did things to a girl or woman. They also gave her a kind of magic confidence that made her mistress of herself. She was fearless, unafraid. Because she knew she was desirable.

"I have it," Jack said suddenly. "It's your hair, Ruth. You're a whiz without it. I'm glad you bobbed it!"

"Thanks!" Ruth smiled at Sue, an audacious smile that enjoyed a secret. Then she turned to Hal Pritchard.

The dinner was a success. Sue and Jack, eager to forget the unhappy evening they had had the night before, tried to be very gay. Hal Pritchard at least made himself an entertaining dinner guest. Ruth was really enjoying her new popularity. It didn't matter to her that Hal Pritchard had probably murmured the exact compliments he paid to her to dozens of other girls. She didn't care that his pretty speeches might be raveled at the edges from much use. The very fact that he put her in the class of girls to whom one said such things was enough for her to give thanks tonight. She had been on the sidelines so long.

"Your name, you say, is Bradley?" he asked, after a while. "It sounds familiar. You aren't by any chance related to a girl I used to know, are you? A Sally Bradley?"

"Oh yes, I'm Sally's twin," Ruth answered.

"Sally's twin? But you can't be!"

"We don't look alike. Or act alike. I know," Ruth said. "But we are twins just the same."

"I should say that you act very much alike," the man told her. That was sweet praise. Sue knew. To be compared to Sally was to be given professional rating, so far as Ruth was concerned.

"Have you known Sally long?" Ruth asked. "Where did you meet her? And didn't she ever mention me?"

Next: A discovery.

BORACIC ACID SOLUTION IS GOOD FOR EYES

BY ALICIA HART

Eyes that wake up bright and shining are a boon indeed. Much more usual are eyes that can't seem to wake up and feel as if they need rubbing to make them see the light of day.

Instead of rubbing your eyes awake, a much better plan is to rinse them out with boracic acid solution or with any good eye wash that you prefer. If they sting, use your solution warm as your eyes can stand it at first. Then rinse them out with a cool solution.

If you do close work in an office or library or anywhere that might be a strain to your eyes, take a little time off in the middle of the morning and again in the middle of the afternoon and use an eye cupfull of solution for each eye. Keep them shut a few seconds afterward and just see how much better you feel.

Always keep an eye cup in your medicine chest in the bathroom and at your place of work. There is no way to clear the eyes so effectively as to actually rinse them out with an eye solution or tonic. But be careful not to use any commercial tonic not recommended by someone who knows your eyes. Your eyes are very sensitive and deserve the utmost care.

If your eyes still continue to burn, often a few drops of eye medicine properly prescribed just for your eyes, will help you. Usually when this happens you need glasses, or more rest or have some form of internal disorder which affects your eyes.

For the perfectly good eyes that merely get tired, palming them is an excellent relief. This consists in covering each eye with the palm of one hand, entirely shutting out all light and leaving the palms there a few seconds, not pressing them onto the eyes too tightly.

WE WOMEN

BAD HABITS BEFORE MARRIAGE—TEMPORARY SEPARATION SHOULD BRING OUT BEST QUALITIES

Dear Virginia Vane: When I first became engaged to the man I love, he never drank or smoked, or in any way dissipated. However during the last few weeks, he has started going with a wild crowd and wants to drink and smoke all the time. This hurts me very much as I cannot stand the thought of his doing these things. What I want to know is whether he will come home drunk to me after we are married—or whether he will settle right down and be his old self once more?

KITTY

Seems rather dangerous to undertake the experiment of matrimony without understanding the man you're going to marry. Obviously you aren't quite sure about his character yet. You don't know whether he's fundamentally strong, or weak—you don't know whether he's passing through a dangerous phase, or merely settling down to a new order of existence.

Therefore it would be better to wait a while before trying marriage. Let's see what he's going to do about these new friends and habits of his. If his drinking goes to his head, you'll find out he's miserable married to a man who drinks—you'd be unwise to hope that marriage would work miracles.

After all the boy apparently didn't go in for alcohol in a big way at all when you first met him, and now, when he's an engaged man, when he's going through that period when most young men are on their best behavior, anxious to advertise themselves as perfect models of virtue—now he chooses to make friends of whom you disapprove and to acquire habits which cause you distress. Doesn't sound as though matrimony would work wonders with him.

Anyway, don't be in any hurry to decide. Keep right on seeing him and try to figure out for yourself how much of this phase is sheer nonsense, and how much is a clear indication of the sort of man he's going to be. It's impossible for an outsider to say definitely what his conduct means—without knowing him at all. But it's quite possible to advise you seriously to study him yourself and wait to see how this sudden change affects his character, and your love for him, before undertaking matrimony.

Separating Good Test

Dear Miss Vane: I am thinking of being married this winter, and my boy friend and I had planned to announce our engagement in January some time. But through various circumstances I will not be able to see him at all during the next month or so and I am wondering whether love will stand the test. Or will absence break the engagement?

M. S.

If an absence of two months is going to prove love false, then the love in question was never worth every much to either of you. Certainly you both ought to be able to stand the test of a few months' separation from each other.

You don't say that what the circumstances are which force you to be apart during the winter, but I should strongly advise you not to attempt to change them—since you must prove yourself and him ready for marriage by testing your devotion to each other.

As a matter of fact an absence of this sort often brings out the best qualities in young people. Neither of you want the separation. Neither of you can help feeling miserable about it—but if you have strength of mind and courage, you'll show each other your best side during this time. Don't be afraid of losing the man in such a short while. If he could be lost because of a brief separation, he was never good husband material anyhow. I believe he'll turn out to be the right sort, in spite of your worries and fears.

LUTHERANS SPONSOR WATCH NIGHT PARTY

On New Year's Day Young People Entertain at Old People's Event

Special to Post-Crescent
Wauwage—Thursday evening the Young People's society of Our Saviour's Lutheran church held their annual watch night party in the church parlors and on Friday afternoon they entertained at their annual Old People's party, which was well attended. A program was given and a lunch served.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Button, High-st. entertained the following guests New Year's day: Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Stratton and daughters, Donna and Mildred of Hortonville; Mr. and Mrs. D. W. A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

MANY BADGER BILLS BEFORE U. S. CONGRESS

Committees Settle Down in Earnest Work as Ses- sion Is Resumed

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—Congressional committees settled down to earnest work when Congress resumed session Monday. They have many bills introduced by Wisconsin senators and congressmen before them.

Wisconsin proposals cover a wide range of subjects, prohibition, unemployment, oleomargarine, and problems of state or local interest leading in popularity.

A new idea for prohibition modification is incorporated in two similar bills introduced by two Wisconsin representatives to empower each state to write its own definition of intoxicating liquors and the Volstead act would not be applicable to states which enact their own definitions to supplant the one-half of one per cent alcoholic content definition. Reps. George J. Schneider of Appleton and Thomas Amle of Ellington are the sponsors of these similar bills.

Prohibition Fight

Prohibition modification or repeal of the 18th Amendment is sought in a number of different bills by Rep. John C. Schafer of Milwaukee, who is seeking to curtail prohibition activities by repeal of the 18th Amendment, by legislation of light wines and beers, by stopping the wire tapping activities of prohibition agencies, and by numerous other measures calculated to take the teeth out of the prohibition law.

Legalizing the manufacture and sale of 2.75 per cent wine and beer is provided in another bill introduced by Rep. Charles A. Kading of Watertown, while the repeal of the Volstead act is sought in a bill sponsored by Rep. Hubert H. Peavey of Washburn.

Wisconsin is, incidentally, figuring prominently in an official capacity at some of the prohibition committee hearings. As chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Senator Charles G. Norris of Nebraska appointed Senator John J. Blaine of Wisconsin to the chairmanship of the subcommittee on prohibition, notwithstanding that Sen. Blaine is an outstanding wet and Norris is dry.

Senator Norris, by the way, has said that he was ready to report the 18th Amendment repeal resolution to the Senate adversely in order that wet might get a Senate vote on the question.

Among the proposed measures to protect the dairy industry, now pending in congress, bills of Wisconsin origin are represented.

Oleo Tax Bill

One oleomargarine bill, submitted by Rep. Gardner Withrow of La-Crosse provides for a six cent tax to be paid on every pound of oleomargarine or better substitute manufactured, as well as a manufacturer's license fee of $1,000, a wholesaler's license fee of $500, a retailer's license fee of $25 and a license fee of $5 on bakers and hotels using substitutes in place of butter.

Withrow's bill is drawn along the lines of the bill introduced in the Wisconsin Legislature by Assemblyman Gehrmann.

Another oleomargarine bill, introduced by Rep. Schneider seeks to prevent the table use of butter substitutes by the government in any of its institutions by prohibiting the future appropriations of money for the purchase of butter substitutes. Oleomargarine is now used in the Army, Navy, federal prisons, and other government institutions, but due to the Blaine amendment to an appropriation bill, its use is prohibited in old soldier's homes and veteran's hospitals.

Prominent among the Wisconsin bills before Congress is that of Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., providing for the establishment of a National Economic Council of experts to investigate economic conditions of the country and to formulate proposals for the solutions of such problems.

As chairman of the subcommittee investigating the merits of such a project for the Senate Committee on Manufactures, Senator LaFollette was put in a strategic position to get information from representative authorities of industry and this fact has undoubtedly aided him in drafting the clear and comprehensive plans for the organization and functioning of such a council, as provided in his bill.

It differs from a similar bill introduced by LaFollette in the last congress, before he conducted the hearings, in several important respects, particularly in providing for the development of more efficient trade organizations for the individual industries.

LaFollette's employment bill has, of course, received nationwide attention but he is not the only Wisconsin member of congress who has introduced employment bills. Rep. James A. Frear of Hudson is sponsoring an unemployment bill authorizing the federal government to contribute funds not to exceed 20 per cent of local unemployment projects which communities may wish to undertake for local unemployment relief.

According to the provisions of Frear's bill, a permanent federal commission of three cabinet officers acting ex-officio with a skeleton organization would be established. In cases of emergency, the commission would be empowered to extend aid to communities requesting it, providing the state matched the government's 20 per cent contribution and the community bearing the rest of the expense.

"The federal government by contributing $100,000,000 in any great emergency would thus employ five times that amount in the construction of municipal improvements; the state through its cooperation and equal contribution would assume supervision of construction and thus avoid what might be undue demands by any one locality," says Frear.

Hold Reception At White House On New Year's Day

BY DOROTHEA J. LEWIS
(Post-Crescent's Washington Society Editor)

Washington—Round and round in circles—social circles—went the ladies of official Washington last Friday, for it was New Year's Day, the annual, inevitable, eternal calling day with the mammoth White House reception starting things off.

The second week of the double holiday season was as gay as the first, and Allan Hoover's Wednesday night White House dance was the goal and envy of all debs and young blades. Then there was Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson's new breakfast for members of the Diplomatic Corps, with color and costumes, and a myriad of other official events and entertainments. Much of Washington's partying was confined, however, to private affairs, particularly on that gayest and latest of all gay nights, New Year's Eve.

The Congressional Club was one of the most active organizations in the city during the second holiday week. Its festivities began Monday afternoon with a costume party for the children and grandchildren of members supervised by Mrs. John C. Schafer, wife of Rep. Schafer of Milwaukee, continued Tuesday with a dance for the sub-deb daughters of members, and concluded on New Year's Day with open house in the afternoon and dancing in the evening.

John T. Buckbee, formerly of Milwaukee, Wis., was one of the members of the executive board of the organization in the receiving line at the New Year's Day reception.

Charles P. Winslow of the Forest Products Laboratory at Madison was in the city during the past representatives during the present congress belongs to Rep. John C. Schafer of Milwaukee. This is a bill directing the National Home for Volunteer Soldiers to pay $1,468 in undrawn pension left by a former inmate of the home, Franklin D. Clark, a Civil War veteran, to the executor of his estate. The money has been withheld for the post fund of the home, though Clark left a will distributing the undrawn pension among his heirs.

Reporting favorably on the Schafer bill, the Committee on Expenditures in Executive Department said: "In the present case it is admitted that the late Franklin D. Clark did leave heirs at law and next of kin, and also left a will which was duly probated, and in the opinion of the committee the pension money uncollected by Franklin D. Clark during his lifetime should not have been diverted to the post fund upon his death but should be paid to the duly appointed executor of his will."

This means that Congress acting on the committee's favorable report will probably pass Schafer's bill some time during the session and that Clark's wish to give his $1,468 undrawn pension money to his relatives will be fulfilled.

Wisconsin will receive clear title to some 200 miles of shore land along the lakes of the northern part of the state, if congress passes a bill reintroduced by Rep. Hubert H. Peavey of Washburn.

This land was erroneously surveyed in 1854 and classed as water-covered when it is not. The state wants to improve these lands, using them for public recreation purposes or leasing them for building sites for summer homes, but these plans were held up by the failure of the senate to take action on the bill during the last congress, when it was passed by the house.

Immel Construction Company of Fond du Lac submitted the lowest of 25 bids, ranging from $77,842 to $99,987, for the construction of the new Wisconsin Rapids postoffice.

The second lowest bid of $79,863 was submitted by Charles B. Johnson and Son, Inc., and the third lowest bid of $80,728, by the Tapscott Construction Co. of Albert Lea, Minn. In all, eight Wisconsin firms submitted bids.

The limit of cost for the entire project is $125,000, to include the purchase of land, clearing of site, construction, etc.

Charles H. Freeman has been appointed postmaster at Bassett in Kenosha county to succeed former postmaster George N. Bassett, who was removed. Freeman has been acting postmaster for some time.

Mrs. Genevieve L. Shannon has been appointed postmaster at Tipler in Florence county to succeed Merle E. Quimby, who resigned.

STURGEON BAY VET PROVES DISABILITY

X-ray Plates Show That Harry B. Hartel Is Par- tially Disabled

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—Because X-ray photographs show that splinters from shell wounds have partially disabled Harry B. Hartel, of Sturgeon Bay, a World War veteran, from working in a garage, the Veterans' Administration office at Milwaukee has decided to give him $28.75 a month partial disability compensation.

The office of Rep. George J. Schneider of Appleton has been informed of the decision, based on the evidence of the X-ray plates from the Wisconsin National Memorial Hospital at Madison and plates made by Dr. Charles Leason of Sturgeon Bay. The Veterans' Administration office was requested by Schneider's office to take these plates into consideration, instead of dismissing Hartel's claim on the basis of other X-ray plates taken by the Veterans' Administration office but not revealing the presence of splinters in Hartel's body.

Schneider hopes to obtain a higher disability compensation for Hartel, who has been obliged to give up his garage work but is still able to help in running a small farm near Sturgeon Bay.

Your Birthday

"CAPRICORN"
If January 5th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:50 a. m. from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 9:40 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:40 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 2:30 p. m. to 3:45 p. m.

Disturbing events are forecast for January 5th, which will serve to jolt people out of apathy into action, out of a frivolous view of life into a sober, steady frame of mind. Present worries may veil from you, for the moment, the real brightness which surrounds you.

Children born on this January 5th will have rollicking natures, and nervous temperaments. They will be bubbling over with enthusiasm and will never fall through lack of trying. They will be generous, affectionate, sincere, loyal and democratic.

Life to you, if born January 5th is a most serious difficult, disappointing affair—and all because of your pessimism. Your expectations are too low to deserve high returns. Nothing so guaranteed defeat as defeatism. You are in constant worry about what is or is not going to happen, yet you have the courage to tackle anything face to face with.

SEND NEWSPAPERS TO U. S. AS FIRECRACKERS

San Pedro, Cal. —(P)—Old newspapers from this country to China come back with a bang! Approximately 300,000 pounds of them are baled and sent to the Orient from this port annually. Many are made into tubes which are filled with powder, given a red covering and sent back as fire-crackers to America for its Fourth of July and other noisy celebrations.

tion is world wide. It is impossible to say from what source new selling of the forced variety may still come. In the second place the United States, admittedly the strongest government financially in all the world, has an unbalanced budget and must increase its taxes and cut its expenditures. Even then according to the present program income will not equal outgo by a wide margin, and additional borrowing will have to be resorted to. That means more government bonds and in any market when you increase the supply you affect unfavorably the price. The other side of the story is that every tree market discounts everything it can foresee. If it is taken unawares by a development on the outside there may be a sudden and sharp decline but if the development is a logical result of conditions that all know exist the chances are that the price decline will have anticipated the news.

In all probability quotations for fixed interest bearing securities at the year end bid so discounted everything likely to happen of an unfavorable character. In looking about for profitable commitments the key to keep in mind is that recovery that is permanent recovery, always comes first in the highest grade obligations. These offer the prospect of reasonable profits and a high degree of safety.

Temporarily, however, on any rebound the widest advance is scored by speculative issues but they should only be taken by those in close touch with the market and by those possessed of the trading instinct. It is hardly necessary to add that purchases should be for cash. The risks are too large for the employment of borrowed money.

More U. S. veterans are in hospitals now than at any time since the World War, a report of the Veterans' Administration shows.

SUNSET PASS

by Zane Grey

SYNOPSIS: Gunplay has filled Trueman Rock's past. Now he has stepped down, but he suspects trouble ahead. He believes his employer, Gage Preston, is a cattle rustler. Preston's son Ash has a bad reputation, but is defended by his sister Thiry, whom Rock loves. Thiry wants Rock to leave Sunset Pass.

Chapter 23
ROCK DENIES LOVEMAKING
UT here in the Southwest sometimes you have to use a gun," Rock said.
She was silent a moment, evidently not quite sure how to take him.
"I asked Al what you did when you found out Ash took your horse," went on Thiry, presently.
"What did Al say?"
"He said you were thunderstruck. You swore something terrible."
"Al told the truth, Thiry," admitted Rock, with reluctance. "I never was so surprised - never so furious. New trick on me! My beautiful horse - that you had named - taken from me."
"Mr. Rock, you see, then - how impossible Ash is!"
"Nobody or nothin' is impossible." "Dad says the man doesn't live who can stand Ash's meanness."
"Well, I'm livin' and maybe I can. ... You saw him this mornin'?"
"Yes. I was up early, helping Ma get breakfast. When the horses came up it wasn't light yet. I heard Dad jawing somebody. Then Range came in and told us. I never said a word, but I was sick. At the table Dad was sarcastic. He said things I'm sure Ash never heard before from anyone. But Ash never batted an eye. Then my mother had her turn. Finally I couldn't keep out of it, and I asked Ash why he'd stolen your horse. ... 'Callin' me boss thief, now?' he said, and I thought he'd strike me. I replied that it did look like stealing. This he didn't answer. Next I asked him why he had taken him and - what he meant - to do with him."
Here emotion accompanied Thiry's speech, she grew husky and faltered.
"Luce told me he'd called the boss Egypt, which was your pet name," said Ash. "That's why I took him an' why I'm goin' to break a leg for him."
Only Rock's powerful hold upon himself, fortified by hours of preparation for anything, kept his anger within bounds.
"All because I gave him your pretty name! Tough on the horse. ... And you were afraid to open your mouth! ... Much you love Egypt!"
"Wait a minute, will you?" she answered, not without anger. "I pitched into Ash Preston as never before in our lives - I don't know what all I called him. He took it - he never said a word. He got up, nonchalantly, from the table, jumped on the horse and was gone like a white streak."
"What are they?" she asked.
"I believe I can serve you best by stayin' at Sunset Pass."
"And the other?"
"I love you."
She flung out her hands, protesting, imploringly, and as if to ward off some incomprehensible peril.
"Mr. - Rock!" she gasped. "You dare make love to me - when we've never been together before - when I'm insistin' you leave me home!"
"I'd dare that, yes, under any circumstances," he retorted, coolly. "But as it happens, I'm not makin' love to you."
"I declare Mr. Rock, you are beyond me," she exclaimed. "What in the world are you doing, then?"
(Copyright, Zane Grey)
Thiry plays her last card in the next installment. It will mean risk, but she has a startling proposal.
HASTY EXIT
ALFRED: I hear you stayed in a haunted house last night. What happened?
CASPER: About 12 o'clock a ghost came through the wall just as if there was no wall there.
ALFRED: And what did you do?
CASPER: I went through the other wall the same way. - Galt Reporter
WAITER!
He proposed and was rejected. Again he proposed and was rejected. Yet again - same result.
"Never mind," he said determinedly.
"Can you wait?"
"Can you really?" she asked, brightly. "Then, if I ever open a restaurant I'll bear you in mind."

Lawrence And High School Cagers Prep For First 1932 Games

ORANGE QUINT BATTLES WEST FRIDAY NIGHT

Vikings Idle Until They Clash With Ripon at Ripon on Jan. 11

SCHOOL bells rang again at Appleton high school and Lawrence college this morning and this evening the respective basketball teams from the two schools start practice for 1932 games. The high school opens with West Green Bay at the Bay Friday and Lawrence will take on Ripon college five at Ripon, Jan. 11.

Christmas and New Year's holidays haven't meant much to the Orange cagers for they played two games during the period and therefore had to remain in condition. On Wednesday evening, Dec. 23, the team staged a thrilling game with Manitowish high school and was lucky to win in an overtime on a technical foul. The week following, Dec. 30, Neenah high school was the opponent and the Red Rockets administered a neat trimming to the Orange five.

With resumption of cage wars this week, the Orange faces its greatest tests. West Green Bay has been defeated but once this season, Appleton hasn't lost a game in conference competition and both are rated the contenders.

West's only defeat came Dec. 23 when the quintet lost to Oshkosh. However, the defeat certainly has lessened chances for a championship five. The boys are veterans, they are tall, rangy, and have good coaching.

Appleton does not seem to have progressed with its games this season. The team is meeting tough competition no doubt, but it lacks something in the way of an offense that can score as it should. Defensively the team has shown well in Valley competition because it has controlled the ball. In other words it got out in front, then managed to keep the ball, and, as everyone knows, the other fellow can't score if you have the ball.

However, against Neenah, with the Rockets controlling the ball, the Orange didn't look so hot, even when Mortell was in the game. It almost appeared the boys didn't know how to stop the Rockets without committing a very obvious foul of some kind or other.

Lawrence's opened practice sessions Saturday at the gym. Previous to that Coach Art Denny had spent a couple days giving his proteges living in the valley, a little special and individual attention.

In Saturday's workout Denny sent the entire squad through drills designed to bring back the shooting eye and develop the wind and reacquaint the boys with the ball.

Lawrence has played four games so far this season, won three of them and lost one, that to Marquette's 22 and 25 at Milwaukee. The score was 22 and 25 which compared very favorably with Wisconsin's 23 and 25 defeat in the hands of M. U.

KIMBERLY QUINTET BEATS THEATRE FIVE

Kimberly Club Red Devils wallowed the Warner Theatre basketball team in a game played Saturday at the Y. M. C. A. The score was 37 and 24. At half time the Theatre found themselves on the mighty short end of a 20 and 4 score. In the second half the Red Devils toyed around with their opponents and let them score 20 points while tallying 17 for themselves.

The box score:

Brookline, Mass.—Katherine Winthrop defeats Helen Jones, 6-3, 6-4 to win national girls' tennis title for second straight year.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

CONNIE MACK says that of a hundred bases stolen nowadays, not more than 10 can be blamed on the catcher. . . and that he has seen Mickey Cochran throw out runners when he, Mr. Mack, didn't think there was a chance to get them. . . pitchers let runners get a big lead, says Mack, and "we have some pitchers who are rather careless about that. It takes them a long time to get the ball away, but when a fellow like White Hoyt is pitching you don't see the other club run. . . convincing, Mack said, "The Cards didn't run on Hoyt—not even Martin." Mr. Mack does not remember that Martin drove a sacrifice fly against Hoyt his first time at bat in the fifth game. . . beat out a hunt the second time. . . and smacked a homer into the left field stands the third time. . . which actually gave Pepper only one chance to steal on Hoyt. . . after he beat out the hunt. . . that time he was squeaked by a happy double play.

Badger Boss

The new director of athletics at University of Wisconsin is going to be Irwin Uteritz, 32, above, former Michigan football and baseball star, if the Badger board of regents accepts the recommendation of the athletic council. He has been coaching at Wisconsin since 1925. Uteritz played quarterback for Michigan and was named on Walter Camp's third All-American team. He also captained the Wolverine basketball team and later played professional baseball as a shortstop.

SCHMELING, N. B. A. SETTLE TROUBLES

Boxing Association Will Not Order Heavyweight Title Vacated

Chicago —(P)—Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, is at peace with the world insofar as the National Boxing association is concerned.

General John V. Clinkin, president of the N. B. A., said today that Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling, had forwarded a check for $2,500 as a forfeit to assure that Schmeling would defend his title in accordance with the rules of the National Boxing association.

As a result, General Clinkin said, no vote will be taken on the proposal to have Schmeling's title vacated for failing to defend it within the prescribed six months. The date for this action expired yesterday. General Clinkin understands that Mickey Walker, will be signed as Schmeling's opponent for a contest to be fought in Miami this spring.

If the Illinois state legislature votes to amend the law permitting 15 rounds bouts instead of 10, General Clinkin believes Chicago still has an excellent chance of landing the Walker-Schmeling fight. The legislature will resume its deliberations tomorrow. George Getz, a member of the Illinois state athletic commission, predicts that the 15 round law will pass.

"Schmeling," General Clinkin said, "has complied with every request we have made of him to date. Although Walker has been mentioned as his probable opponent, we have advised him that Jack Sharkey, Ernie Schaff, Primo Carnera, or Young Strubling will be acceptable. These boxers are ranked by us in the order named."

Cincinnati Reds Bring New Material To Majors

(Note—This is another of baseball series on major league shakeups and 1932 prospects.)

By R. C. WILKERSON Associated Press Staff Writer

CINCINNATI, O. — (P)—The Cincinnati Reds have brought in a wealth of new talent for the 1932 campaign.

The outfield still is weak offensively and half the infield is uncertain. There is nothing much wrong with the pitching staff, on the other hand, and the catching department appears to have been bolstered by Clyde Manion, drafted from Milwaukee.

Neither owner Sidney Weil nor Manager Dan Howley is satisfied but they are living in the hope that several newcomers will blossom into big league stars. Howley, serving the last of a three-year term, has had little luck since he left the St. Louis Browns for the local post.

"Prospects are the outfield will consist of Edil Crabtree, Taylor Douthett and Walter Roettger, a trio of fine fielders but not so powerful at bat. Roettger, traded to the Cardinals last summer, was repurchased from the champions this winter. Several clubs have been after the youngster. Crabtree, but Weil refused to let him go.

AMATEURS TO SHOW AT GREEN BAY AND FONDY THIS WEEK

Ahl and Kramer at Bay, Stubler and Cieslak at Fond du Lac

A program of six bouts will be offered on the first amateur fight card of the 1932 season at the Columbus club Green Bay, Friday, Jan. 8. It has been announced by Paddy McDonough, boxing instructor and matchmaker for the club.

Heading the show will be Hans Ahl, Oshkosh, and Marty Kramer, Sheboygan, who will mix at 146 pounds. These fighters have been busy in amateur circles for the past three years, building up fine records among the Simon-pures.

In the semi-windup Leo Champeau of Green Bay takes on Hank Rasmussen, Appleton, at 142 pounds. Rasmussen recently won over Lyle Drake, Waupaca, in a great fight at Appleton after Drake had won ten straight fights.

Art Van Ess, another Green Bay boy, who has appeared here before, will be on another spot in the program, meeting Oscar Oleson, Waupaca, at 155 pounds. Leo Hirschman, Denmark, takes on Shorty Chyne with, Manitowish, at 136 pounds. Hirschman also is a member of the Columbus club team and as Chyne with is a small, stocky boy, built about the same as the Denmark youth, the bout should be good.

Norbert Gerardin, Green Bay, faces Leroy Kohls, Sheboygan, at 134 pounds and Wolfe Gligler, West Side Green Bay boy meets Albert Deropowski, East side boy of this city, in the curtain raiser. This will be the first start for Gligler and Deropowski.

STUBLER AT FONDY

Auggie Stubler, Sheboygan, who claims the state amateur boxing championship and Joe Cieslak of Milwaukee will meet in the wind-up of the next amateur boxing program to be presented at Armory E. Fond du Lac, Jan. 8, under sponsorship of the Knights of Columbus. Matchmaker Dauber Jaeger announced today.

Stubler's claim to the mythical championship is based upon the fact that he has defeated such amateurs as Hans Ahl of Oshkosh, Lew Bernstein, Thomas, Stupar, Thompson and other luminaries in state amateur circles.

Cieslak, who according to Matchmaker Jaeger is the best amateur in Milwaukee, has won his last three fights here with knockouts. Al Sadowski, Beaver Dam favorite, has been promoted to the semi-wind-up ranks and is scheduled to meet Al Weiter of Green Bay. Weiter recently knocked out Frank Weyenberg, who was a runner-up in the state gloves championship. Weiter is a rough lad and it will be quite a surprise if Sadowski is able to score a victory against him.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

WOLVERINES AND SPECIALS WIN IN OLDER BOY LEAGUE

Former Five Beats A. I. R., Latter Downs the Valley Sports

WOLVERINE Cagers in the Older Boy league of the Y. M. C. A. won another game Saturday afternoon when they easily defeated the A. I. R. quintet 25 and 6. The Wolves top the league.

In the other game of the evening the Sam Grinstein Specials won from the Valley Sport team by a score of 25 and 13. The Specials are one of the loop's second place teams with only one defeat chalked against them.

The A. I. R. had the great pleasure of leading the Wolverines during the first quarters of their game, the count being 4 and 2 as result of a couple long shots by Lauer and Hickok. Then the Wolves snapped out of it and managed to lead 11 and 6 at half time and of course continued hitting the hoop in the second half while the A. I. R. was held scoreless.

The Sports, one of the smallest teams in the league led the Specials 2 and 1 at the end of the first quarter and trailed by a mere 10 and 5 score at the half. In the second half the Specials used their size to advantage and piled up 15 points to the 8 scored by the Sports.

Tuesday afternoon the A. I. R. and Indians will clash in one game, the Junior Bears and Junior Merchants in another and the Warner Theatres and the Specials in the third.

BAT BATTALINO TO DEFEND TITLE FRIDAY

New York — (P)—Christopher (Pat) Battalino starts the New Year right with a featherweight title defense in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

His opponent this time will be a young New Yorker, Low Feldman. They will fight 15 rounds or less with Battalino an odds-on choice.

The Battalino-Feldman match is the only outstanding bout on the national card this week. Los Angeles, however, will offer a ten round struggle between Al Brown, elongated Panama Negro, and Speedy Dado, Filipinobantamweight, tonight.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

"Tuition for Touchdowns" WRITING under the title "Tuition for Touchdowns" R. C. McCormick in the Brown Bellet, proposes scholarships for potential All-Americans.

"With the coming of the postwar period of the stadium and bumgin gazzling collegians," he writes, "the sport-crazed American public, long held in check by the worries of war, started a worldwide search for an outlet for its newly found spirit of revelry. They went to Paris to view the Pelles Bergers; to Berlin to drink beer; to Vienna to learn the truth about the Viennese maidens; to Rome to do as the Romans did. That is, in the summer and winter they did. In the fall they stayed home and swelled the gate receipts for the promoters of the fastest growing sport America has ever produced—football. They furnished the money to build elaborate colosseums of sport. They gave education to many whose only means of reimbursing college authorities was to make the All-American."

"Brown and her backers went along with the rest of the pack. An inspired alumnus donated huge sums of money to be transformed as it by sheer magic into huge columns of cement and steel. Another succeeded in captivating the fanciest of one De Ormond McLaughry, then doing fairly well as head coach at Amherst. Mr. McLaughry captivated the fancies of eleven men who could play football. The eleven took the sports writers by storm and Yale, Harvard and Dartmouth by plenty of touchdowns. The famous 'Iron Men' were born. The stadium was filled for the first, last and only time to date. Brown looked in the spotlight of the nation and everything was rosy. There was no need to subsidize athletics. Consequently Brown did not do so.

Proposes Scholarship "That since that time Brown has not fared so well in intercollegiate gridiron wars. Hence the crying need of filling the stadium—for it is a well-known fact that football maintains all other forms of sport in any college.

"There are two sure ways of filling football stadiums. One is a good schedule. The other is to have one or two All-Americans hanging around. To be supported, of course, by a better than average team.

"To get these All-Americans, that better than average team, and to fill the stadium, I propose a good, conscientious subsidization of athletes. If some colleges or universities, and here I pause to ask why it should not be the new Brown—were to openly offer athletic scholarships to prospective Brown men and All-Americans in return for a reasonable amount of work in the classroom and a whole lot of work on the football field it would show that at least one college in the United States had the courage of its convictions. Entirely too many colleges wait, with one eye on unfavorable publicity and the other on a crack pre-school ballback, and then turn around and grab the half back at the same time thumping their intellectual noses at the unfavorable publicity.

"In furnishing athletic scholarships to the worthy, Brown, as well as some other colleges, need not alter in the slightest the present high standards of admission simply to procure football players. The scholarships should be given for high proficiency on the football field, in the gymnasium or in the swimming tank, provided the candidate for such aid can maintain his eligibility for the variety or freshman teams at all times. The nature of the work to be eligible for his teams his scholarship aid also comes.

"It is not necessary to explain the advantages of this plan. I would not propose the scholarship needed to maintain aid on too high a level. Merely an average scholar, who is fairly certain of graduating with his class, should be afforded the chances of a college education, provided, of course, that he to excellent football material."

Apologies in Order New Year's day we ran a friendly story on amateur sports in Appleton and when we finished the last line we hoped and prayed and tried to recall whether any of the sports had been omitted. We decided they hadn't.

And then, just about the time the presses started rolling we were hit right square in the face with the word "sneezers" and almost passed out of the picture. We had forgotten the soccer team sponsored by the Sports Club Germania!

So in an effort to correct the omission we'd like to say that soccer also progressed during the last year and won new friends. Appleton Sport club team is in a league composed of valley and lake shore teams and played games here and away from home winning over new friends for the sport. The team is entirely an amateur affair and the boys showed great spirit in giving a charity benefit game in October.

Cappon Coaches Wolves Franklyn Cappon, at Michigan, is the only new figure in the coaching scheme. He replaced George Veenker, who took the Wolverines to a title, and always had them well up in the race. Dr. Walter E. Meander, coach of the team at Purdue, the deans of the corps, are back, as are Rollo Williams, a Meanwell pupil, at Iowa; Arthur (Dutch) Longberg at Northwestern; Harold Olson at Iowa State; Clark Ruby at Illinois; Dave MacMillan at Minnesota; Everett Green at Indiana, and Nelson Norvick at Chicago.

In addition to the conference championship games tonight Iowa will play at Drake, Minnesota will entertain South Dakota, and Chicago will get to Milwaukee to meet Marquette's powerful outfit.

BADGERS, CATS CLASH IN FIRST BIG TEN GAME

Indiana Will Meet Purdue, Ohio State Tackles Illinois

BY WILLIAM WEEKES Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO —(P)— Northwestern will open the defense of its Western conference basketball championship tonight against Wisconsin, in the top offering on a three-game inaugural schedule.

While the Wildcats are battling Wisconsin at Evanston, Indiana will meet Purdue at LaFayette, and Ohio State will tackle Illinois at Champaign.

Of last year's title winners Northwestern has Joe Reiff, the Big Ten's individual scoring leader, Bus Smith and Bob McCarnes, and with several other letter winners and promising sophomores, promises to be a factor in the race.

Bollermakers Strong However, Purdue's Bollermakers, often at the top, appear headed for another championship. Coach Ward Lambert has a team of veterans, headed by Johnny Wooden, Keller and Ray Eddy, and from the way pre-season opponents have been mauled around, the Bollermakers might even expect to get through the Big Ten campaign without a beating.

Illinois, which won its last seven games last year after dropping five conference games in a row, appears to be the big threat. The Illini have scored along at a swift clip so far this season, losing only to another of those fine title teams, and will be a sizeable favorite over Ohio State's improved five tonight.

Northwestern promises to be almost as good as last season, as does Michigan, which tied with Purdue for second place last year. The other teams, with the exception of Iowa, appear to be definitely improved and a close race for the title seems certain.

Indiana is not yet the Indiana of old, but looks stronger and Minnesota, Chicago, Wisconsin and Ohio figure to be tough for any opponent. During the practice season Purdue and Minnesota were the only Big Ten teams to escape defeat, Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio State and Illinois lost one each, while Northwestern was beaten twice, both times by Notre Dame.

FINANCE MART LIMPS FEEBLY INTO NEW WEEK

Seasonal Improvement Fails to Show; Sentiment
Rather Gloomy

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor
New York (AP)—The financial market limped feebly into the new week today.

With seasonal improvement in major industries such as steel failing to appear as promptly as had been hoped, the stock market remained rather gloomy. The president's message to congress urging immediate action upon his emergency program was regarded hopefully, but as fresh evidence of the gravity of the situation, was scarcely stimulating to the securities markets.

Share prices slipped 1 to 4 points or more, with the general average sagging into the negative column. The Dow Jones industrial average closed at 117.14, a ghost of a day at midday disappeared when Case tumbled more than 6 points. Losses of 2 to 4 were registered in such issues as American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, North American, Allied Chemical, Eastman and Norfolk and Western. Issues off a point or more included U. S. Steel, American Can, General Motors, New York Central and Southern Pacific.

Annual statements of leading banks which began to appear, were regarded with considerable interest. The high degree of liquidity shown was indicated in high financial quarters as an evidence of the success with which the shrinkage in commercial activity and outstanding credit, with consequent shrinkage of deposits of commercial banks, had been met. Shrinkage in deposits in the first statements roughly coincided in percentage with the shrinkage in federal reserve credit outstanding.

Annual surveys of business and finance appearing in large volume attracted interest in Wall-st chiefly for the somewhat chastened attitude of commentators, so lacking two years ago. Some leaders felt that the evidence of a determination to face facts augured well for substantial progress toward recovery during the new year.

Failure of the market to improve, with the lifting of tax selling, has caused some disappointment, but indications of a substantial increase in short interest caused some observers to look for a technical rally. Lasting improvement, it was felt, would require an upturn in general business by the end of January, the steel industry, which has shown little comeback from the year-end slump as yet, may provide some indication of the seasonal improvement that may be expected.

HOG RECEIPTS ARE SURPRISE TO TRADE

Packers Fail to Give Market
Support; Prices Slip at Outset

Chicago (AP)—Traders who looked for an overwhelming supply of porcine stock today were mildly surprised to find receipts here and throughout the market circle were smaller than a week ago and a year ago. Packers failed to give the early market adequate support, though they received only 8,000 hogs on direct billing. A potentially broad shipping demand was not sufficient, in fact, to prevent prices from slipping at outset of the season.

Resistance on the part of sellers to the demands for concessions slowed the market down and initial under Saturday's average. Good butchers being wanted at $4.35 to $4.45. Though the first 200 lb. weights were held at $4.50, the market was not so strong.

Substantial receipts of cattle rolled into the local stockyards today, of 18,000 exceeding that of a week ago and a year ago, though outside markets had fewer cattle than on the first Monday last year. As the short fed steers of plain and medium quality have become more numerous in the medium to heavy weight brackets, the preference of buyers shifted to the choice small fed offerings. Picked steers and yearlings were quotable steady, but bulk of the beefs had a weaker tendency.

Skilfully holding volume of marketings down to absolute trade requirements, producers of lambs were in a fair way to stabilize values. Fresh supplies in the local sheep sheds carried few direct and were ample for trade needs resulting in a slow market.

WHEAT VALUES DOWN DESPITE SUPPLY DROP

Board of Trade Directors
Spending Time Elec-
tioneering

BY JOHN T. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor
Chicago (AP)—Notwithstanding a decrease of 603,000 bushels in United States wheat visible supply, continuing with increase a week and a year ago, wheat values sagged today.

North American wheat export business was relatively slack, and the bearish course both of the stock market and cotton served as a drag on cereals. Electioneering between rival candidates for board of trade directors occupied much of the time of members.

Corn weakened with wheat but failed to show as much loss as the latter grain. Weather conditions were unfavorable for corn movement. In some sections of the corn belt, it was asserted considerable feeding was necessary. Country of ferings to arrive as well as shipping demand where were limited.

Attention of corn traders was drawn to reports showing that less difference than usual prevailed between prices at present for feed grain in the surplus areas and in the deficient areas. Less, prices for corn in Alabama and Mississippi, deficient areas, are only about 8 cents over the average. In the surplus areas of Illinois, Iowa and Nebraska, whereas a five year average shows a difference of about 28 cents a bushel.

At about one cent a bushel setback, wheat received better buying support owing more or less to an estimate of a trade authority that feeding of wheat to livestock in the United States during the last six months had totaled as much as 129,000,000 bushels. He figured domestic farm stocks Dec. 31, however, as 235,000,000 bushels, and supplies in mills and elevators as 38,000,000 bushels. A bullish constriction was placed on announcement that wheat afloat for European countries amounted to 29,815,000 bushels against 31,104,000 a week ago and 27,472,000 at this time last year.

Japanese requirements of United States wheat this season were forecast as under those of last season. It was shown that in two months Japan's wheat imports from this country totaled considerably below the figures for the same period in the two preceding years, whereas Australia had gained, and that significant quantities of new crop Australian wheat have been contracted for by Japan. Bears laid stress also on word that Germany's acreage of winter wheat and of rye had both been augmented. Corn and oats sympathized with wheat weakness.

Provisions were responsive to hog market declines.

BUILDING WORK NEARS FINISH AT PAPER MILL

Outside Construction at Thilmany Company Is Completed Saturday

Kaukauna—Construction work at the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co. here is rapidly nearing completion. Outside work was completed Saturday. The work is being done under direction of the Permanent Construction Co., with W. J. Arenz as foreman. About 100 men are employed, and the project will be completed about Feb. 1, according to Mr. Arenz.

Two new buildings have been constructed to house paper machines and finished stock. One of the buildings, which is at the paper plant, will house the finished stock and offices, while the other will be used in the actual paper making, housing one large machine. Remaining work on the offices includes plastering and flooring while all of the work on the warehouse has been completed. The new warehouse is about 300 feet long and about 50 feet wide. Both of the buildings are constructed of brick and stone, with concrete floors.

At the pulp plant the workmen are tarring the roof and moving in the new machinery. An old turbine room has been remodeled, along with several other small buildings, and all of these will house new equipment, with the turbine room containing the new paper machines. The machinery is the equipment of the old tissue plant at Appleton, which was moved into the local plant. Most of the employees of the tissue mill will be employed here when the additions begin operations.

STATE AND FEDERAL FARM GROUPS FAVOR JOINT TRADE PLAN

Urge Farmers to Join Cooperative Movements for Better Economy

BY W. F. WINSEY

To prevent competition between rival organizations, to obtain unanimity of effort and business and legislative power and to introduce economies, the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, the Department of Agriculture and Markets and the Federal Farm Board, working in harmony are advising farmers who have fluid milk to market to become members of the Pure Milk Products' Cooperative; those who have cheese to market to become members of the National Cheese Producers' Federation; those who have cream or butter to market to become members of the Land O'Lakes Creameries; those who have livestock to market to join the Equity Livestock Shipping Association; those who have fruit to market to join the Door County Fruit Growers' Union and those who have tobacco to sell to join the Northern Tobacco Pool.

Stating the same plan in other words, the College of Agriculture, the department of Agriculture and the federal farm board are advising that all cheese be marketed through the National Cheese Producers' Federation, but through the Land O'Lakes Creameries fluid milk through the Pure Milk Products' Cooperative, fruit through the Door County Fruit Growers' Union, and livestock through the Equity association, and so on.

Another part of the plan is to federate each of the above cooperative marketing organizations, the state federation to be composed of delegates elected by the local units. The business of the state federation in each division would be formulating marketing policies, and doing all other general business. The locals in each case would give the federation, concentrated, tremendous power that disjointed local could never have or use.

The Wisconsin College of Agriculture, the Extension Service of the College and the Department of Agriculture and Markets are not in the farming or the marketing business as professional farm organizers often assert to make an impression and accomplish their purposes. On the other hand the representatives of these agricultural departments are the competent trusty servants of farmers whom the farmers pay for their work. The one purpose of these servants is to test improvements in farm and market practices which no farmers could do for himself and to recommend the best to the farmers.
